Luke Williamson And Old Charon

John (Luke) Williamson, for many years chief check pilot for Delta, died the other day.

He passed on prosaically in a hospital bed, a weary shadow of his once great self.

It was, in a sense, an ironic, quiet crossing of the Styx for a man who had kept old Charon waiting across many crowded years during which the old ferry tender at the most ancient river crossing of them all was tiptoe with expectancy for passenger Williamson.

Many and many a time there was that old Charon made ready, when Luke Williamson was on some desperate flight behind Japanese lines; over some paddy of rice in China; above the great, frightening mass of the Himalayas, or dropping paratroopers in North Africa.

And well before that, there were many times when old Charon pushed his craft out to pick up Luke Williamson—only to have to wait. Those were the years when Billy MacDonald, Luke Williamson and a fellow named Claire Lee Chennault literally kept Army aviation alive. They "sold" it to the public and a lot of chuckle-headed Army brass which didn't think fighters or air-support tactics should ever cut a figure in aviation.

'Three Men'

The three of them, Chennault, MacDonald and Williamson, were the "Three Men on a Flying Trapeze" team. They flew all over the country at fairs and at big picnics. They flew wing to wing and did acrobatics, making the customers gasp, and bringing in a few recruits.

Later, when Japan began to move toward China, Chennault, MacDonald and Williamson went to China and started building the Chinese air force. Williamson came home to his family. But when the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor he went back in and flew transports. He made our first paratrooper drops in Africa. He went back to China and flew for Chennault, dropping supplies, guns, doctors, medicines and replacements to guerrillas operating in Burma and east China.

He was always a calm, quiet man. Col. Johnny Virden, now an editor of the Army Times in Washington, was on a C46 flying "The Hump" when the young pilot ordered everyone to jump. One engine had quit and the other was heating up. Virden, who also was both freezing and heating up at the thought of jumping into the eternity of the Himalayas, was mightily relieved when Luke Williamson got up and strolled up to the cockpit.

"Son," he said, "I been flying these here contraptions since before you was born . . . and I ain't never had to jump out of one yet . . . now, if you'll ease over I'll nurse this here flying machine into Kunming . . ."

He did too, and got the dead engine going on the way.

Chennault gave him his third Distinguished Flying Cross.

End of War

At the end of the war in China, Williamson could have had any money he wanted to stay there as chief pilot for Chennault's civilian line. They were paying young pilots $1,200 in gold and all expenses.

But Luke Williamson declined. "No," he said. "I'm going back to Ninety-Six. (The South Carolina town of that name near which he was born.) I'm going to get me a farm and a gun. I'm going to lie in the shade and shoot every plane that flies over."

But everyone knew he wouldn't. He had flown since the days of the old piano wire crates on through the days of jets, and he kept up all the way, never saying anything bad about anyone, and holding his friends close. The world is a poorer place without him.

Here is the place for a confession. When he died the young men on the daily newspapers, radios and television stations didn't know him. And so they also missed the fact Gen. Chennault and his beautiful Chinese wife came up from Louisiana for the funeral. And that Billy MacDonald, now a staid businessman in Birmingham, attended, too. Only the old China hands and a few correspondents who were in China really knew them. Which is maybe the way it should have been. There'll be plenty of time in eternity for them to meet and crack a ghostly pint and remember the old days.

Wilson Cuts Office Help By 12 Pct.

Pentagon Starts Economy Drive

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson today ordered a 12 per cent cut in the number of civilians and military people working in defense offices in the greater Washington area. He served notice that similar cuts will soon be extended to many headquarters at home and abroad.

The order specifically tells the Defense Department, the Army, the Navy and the Air Force to eliminate 6,414 jobs in the Washington area within the 12 months starting July 1. The reduction is based upon a military and civilian payroll of 53,986 in that area, more than half of them in the Pentagon, at the end of last December.

DRIVE CONFINED

The manpower economy drive does not affect combat strength in the field anywhere, but is specifically confined to major headquarters involved in administrative and office work.

Also specifically excluded from the mandatory cut are such agencies as the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the North Atlantic Treaty offices here and the Court of Military Appeals. Those three agencies now employ a total of 644 people, military and civilian.

WATCHES LOOPHOLES

In his new order, Wilson sought to plug loopholes used by the services in previous manpower economy drives. He specifically forbade confining the reductions to people in low grade, low pay categories. Wilson also prohibited evasion of the order through such expedients as the assigning of military or civilians to the Pentagon for temporary duty.

NORMAL ATTRITION

The reduction will be accomplished, insofar as possible, by normal attrition. Defense officials said there is little likelihood that anyone now holding a job will be discharged involuntarily.

Wilson said consideration will be given later to a comparable reduction of headquarters staffs at major subordinate commands of all of the services, as well as in Allied commands overseas.

Officials said the delay in extending the economy drive outside of Washington has been caused by difficulty in drawing a sharp line between headquarters that are primarily administrative and those that are directly concerned with combat operations.

GEA Officers Here To Chart $250,000 HQ

Officers and trustees of the Georgia Education Assn. Wednesday will smooth out plans for a $250,000 Atlanta headquarters building program that they will ask delegates to the state convention to approve Thursday.

A proposal to increase GEA dues by $1 a year to pay for the building will be submitted to the 1,300 delegates here Thursday.

GEA officials hope to complete the building on Central avenue, across from the City Hall, for the 1958 GEA convention.

County school superintendents and the school administrators will hold a joint meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Henry Grady Hotel. High school principals will have their annual banquet at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Henry Grady High School cafeteria.

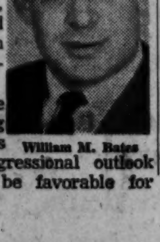
Educators Pressing For U.S. School Aid

By WILLIAM M. BATES
Constitution Political Editor

A drive is under way to drum up support in Georgia for federal school construction legislation—without federal strings, of course.

The Georgia Education Assn. will probably sound a new appeal for an acceptable school aid bill at its meeting in Atlanta this week.



William M. Bates

And the State Board of Education, which also meets this week, may be asked to endorse such a plan of federal aid.

Unless the budget-cutting spree changes things, the congressional outlook is reported to be favorable for some form of federal aid legislation at this session. The House Education Committee is now at work on a classroom construction bill and favorable action soon is likely.

The big question, of course, is whether Congress can or will write an education bill that would not conflict with state and local school control and with racial segregation.

In Georgia, the GEA and school leaders generally have long carried the banner for federal aid. They think there's a good chance

Elevator Dives 5 Floors, Kills 5 in Jacksonville

By ARCHIE MARTIN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19 (AP)—A construction elevator, loaded with 17 workmen getting ready to go home, plunged five floors to the ground at the new Duval county courthouse today, killing five men.

Some wives of the workmen, waiting on the street and in parked cars, were among the horrified witnesses.

RESCUE WORK

Rescuers toow 12 injured to hospitals where their conditions were reported serious or critical.

Witnesses said they heard a snap—apparently a cable giving way—and the elevator smacked to the ground. "It sounded like an explosion," one said.

"Then there were screams," said Bob Barsh, an insulation superintendent who was standing on the ground. "To describe it is hell," he said. "Bodies were all piled up, and there were cries of 'Help! I'm dying!' "

Police listed these dead: George Edward Leach, 31, Dewey Wood, 45; Glenn D. Idol, 25; and Jack Monroe Thomasson, 24, and Dave Atmore, 56.

Seven injured were reported at Duval Medical Center; three at St. Luke's Hospital, and two at Baptist Hospital.

The elevator was on the outside of the new courthouse, a seven-story building being constructed along the St. Johns River in downtown Jacksonville.

Ernest E. Thompson, a sheet metal foreman, said he was getting ready to catch the elevator at the fourth floor landing with three others when he heard a rattle and just a slight pop.

GLANCES UP

"I glanced up as the elevator went by," he said. He put his hands to his ears and turned away so he wouldn't hear the sounds of his "friends getting killed," he said.

Thompson said he ran down the stairs to the ground and saw the men in a heap on the elevator.

One had a leg trapped under the board floor of the temporary elevator and was screaming, "Shorty, help me!"

Thompson said he and two other men lifted the elevator and released the man, whom Thompson identified as W. G. Chubb.

Senate Group Okays Rights; Fight Vowed

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 19—A Senate judiciary subcommittee overrode southern opposition today and approved the Eisenhower administration's civil rights bill.

By a 4-2 vote, the group sent the measure to the full judiciary committee. Subcommittee Chairman Hennings (D-Mo) said he would press there for quick action.

A similar measure has been recommended by the House Judiciary Committee, and is awaiting rules committee clearance for floor debate.

Earlier, speaking on the civil rights bill approved by the House committee, Sen. Talmadge called it "the most alarming and dangerous such proposal to be put before the Congress since the infamous Force Bill of reconstruction days."

Talmadge said that despite the fact that the outcome is in doubt, "the people of the United States can be assured that the senators and congressmen from the South will fight their battle for constitutional government."

Decatur Raises Property Taxes

Decatur's property tax was increased to 23½ mills and the 1957 budget was set at $1,456,965 by the city commission Tuesday night.

The sanitary tax was increased to $21, an increase of $4.

The ad valorem levy includes 7.5 mills for general funds, 12.5 mills for schools and 3.5 mills for bond retirement. This totals two cents on $100 value more than last year's $2.33 per $100.

Officials said the sanitary tax was raised to put essential services on a self-sustaining basis. A system of charges based on frontage was set up for business houses.

Charge Pair Paid for Data On Inquiry

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—A Federal Grand Jury today indicted James R. Hoffa, vice president of the Teamsters Union, on charges of conspiring to bribe a Senate Rackets Committee employe to steal committee documents.

Also indicted was Hyman L. Fischbach, Miami attorney who allegedly was the link between Hoffa and the committee aide.

The three-count indictment of both defendants charged them with bribery, conspiracy to influence the Senate employe, and obstruction of justice.

CHARGES SET

The idictment, returned before Federal District Judge Richmond B. Keech, charged that Hoffa and Fischbach conspired to pay New York Attorney John Cye Cheasty "a large sum of money" if he would obtain employment with the Senate committee and obtain access to its files.

As part of the conspiracy, it said, Cheasty was to "secretly reveal and divulge" to the two defendants committee "plans and intentions." He also would turn over to the pair committee "documents, papers and memoranda."

The indictment listed 24 overt acts allegedly committed by Fischbach and Hoffa. They included a charge that Hoffa paid Cheasty $1,000 in Detroit last Feb. 13 at a meeting arranged by Fischbach.

Many of the alleged acts dealt with telephone conversations between Hoffa and Cheasty. During these talks, the indictment said, Cheasty gave Hoffa information about the committee investigation.

In the other counts Hoffa and Fischbach were charged with giving Cheasty $2,000 on March 12 to induce him to "do acts in violation of his...lawful duties;" and that they obstructed the committee's "due and proper exercise of the power of inquiry" between Feb. 12 and March 14.

EX-SECRET SERVICE

Cheasty, a 49-year-old former Secret Service agent, cooperated with the FBI in the case and testified before the Federal Grand Jury last week.

The maximum penalty on a bribery conviction is three years on each count plus a fine three times the size of the bribe.

For conspiracy, the maximum penalty is $10,000 and imprisonment for five years.

PENNY SHOWS SIZE OF FIRE ANTS AT CHAMBLEE

Small Creatures Didn't Live Up to Reputation of Big Bite

A STINGING FAILURE HERE

Fire Ants Fizzle Out, Won't Bite on Dare

By FRANK WELLS

Somebody has turned the damper down on Atlanta's supply of fire ants.

The ants are here all right, several hills of them next to some woods in a field near Chamblee.

And the ants are just as busy as—well, ants in an ant hill.

To test the vicious fire bite of the ant, Tuesday afternoon I took a pair of tweezers and picked up the largest one of the shiny dark red ants I could find. He was a little less than a quarter of an inch long.

JUST CRAWLED AROUND

He was mad enough while held by the tweezers, but when I put him on the back of my left hand he just crawled around.

"Maybe he's looking for a tender spot," I figured.

But he was satisfied with just crawling.

"Maybe this one has his stinger stuck or his burner bruised," I thought.

Tried another one, just a little smaller. Same crawling, same exploring, no burn.

SLITS THE SKIN

In placing some props for the photographer to illustrate size, several more crawled around on my hands. I blew them off, as I would any other ant; still no burn.

The ants will bite, however. There is plenty of entomological proof, even with descriptions of how the ant first slits the skin and then with a doubling of his body, squirts his "fire" into the microscopical opening.

The ants, an unwelcome import from South America, have reached pest proportions in some South

Jury Pledges Full Probe of Court Sales

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

A "full and complete investigation" of reported irregularities in connection with marshal's sales of repossessed property was promised by the Fulton County Grand Jury Tuesday.

Foreman Felix Cooper also declared the jury would see that "any and all irregularities be corrected and guilty persons, if any, be brought to justice."

The statement added that a committee of the grand jury has been appointed to work with Sol. Gen. Paul Webb.

The investigation grew out of charges made against former Chief Deputy Marshall T. A. Poole and Deputy Marshal Raymond C. Bowden by Chief Civil Judge J. Wilson Parker two weeks ago. The two were charged with not reporting the true amounts received on items they sold for the court.

Webb said Tuesday that his investigation indicated "one or two lawyers" may be implicated. Any indictments will be presented to this grand jury before its term expires in April, Webb said.

Meanwhile, Judge Parker said Marshal T. J. Grogan had told him that W. R. Millirons' garage at 2970 Lakewood Ave., SW, probably was getting more furniture storage business than other firms because it gave better service. Grogan told a reporter Millirons gets "a little more storage than anybody else" due to the fact he can supply a truck at odd hours.

YOUR INCOME TAX—NO. 4

Most Mistakes Are Committed As People List Their Earnings

Test your skill and see if you can tell which of the items listed below are subject to the U.S. and state of Georgia income tax:

1. Dividend from insurance policy.
2. Cash gift from mother.
3. Health and accident benefits.
4. Social Security benefit.
5. Amounts received under Workmen's Compensation laws.
6. Damages awarded for injuries.
7. Stock in corporation inherited from grandfather.
8. Payments from government as a veteran (not including non-disability retirement pay).

The answer is that none of these items is subject to income taxes on either the federal return or the state of Georgia return.

(Fourth of six income tax articles written for The Atlanta Constitution by the Atlanta Chapter, Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

More mistakes are made by people in listing their income than in any other type of error, according to a survey made by the Internal Revenue Service. No doubt the same holds true as regards the return filed with the state. It is, therefore, important that you know what income to include and what not to include in your return. If in doubt, you should consult the instruction book which was sent to you with your return.

If you won a prize last year the proceeds will be taxable if you were required to exert the slightest effort to earn it. For instance, if you finished a jingle, wrote a poem or wrote a letter for the sponsor, it is considered that you earned the prize and earned income is subject to the tax.

If you did nothing to earn the prize on the other hand—for instance, if you simply answered the telephone and were informed that your name had been selected for some prize—then the prize is not taxed.

If an award is made in recogni-

Hint Larceny In Tapping of Union's Funds

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—A Senate rackets investigation rolled out a mass of evidence today that Frank W. Brewster, a top Teamsters Union official, applied cash from the union till to a home, racing stable, and costly tailor-made suits.

There was evidence, too, that the boss of the Teamsters Western Conference doubled up on expense accounts and got some of the gifts the union spread around at Christmas time.

CITE LARCENY LAWS

Finally, after the grilling had gone on for hours, the investigators cited larceny laws to the sweating, squirming witness.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the special committee looking into alleged labor-industry racketeering, said today's testimony "on the face of it clearly indicates that some of those funds have been misappropriated" and that Brewster benefited personally.

The union executive said he could prove before the committee adjourned for the day he never used union money "for selfish purposes." That wasn't accomplished, and the hearing goes on again tomorrow.

ISN'T GOOD

Brewster had conceded earlier that the picture showing union checks financed some of his private operations "isn't good." But he insisted every dime will be paid back.

It was Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, who quoted the State of Washington's law that anyone who secretes, withholds or appropriates funds of other persons in his custody is guilty of larceny.

"Would you say, Mr. Brewster," Kennedy asked in severe tones, "that when you used union funds to pay your personal bills. . . this was larceny?"

With perspiration oozing from his brow, Brewster said it was a legal question he was incapable of answering.

Summing up the day's activities, Kennedy said the evidence showed union funds were used to pay tailoring bills, repair a horse van, finance expenses of a jockey

Lewd-Film Ring Smashed Here As 5 Are Seized

Five persons were arrested as police confiscated three reels of motion pictures and more than 1,000 negatives and prints late Tuesday in breaking up what was described by detectives as a large-scale pornographic ring.

Detective Sgt. R. E. Sheppard Jr. said those arrested, including a 15-year-old girl who was turned over to juvenile authorities, identified themselves as Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Osborne, of a Sanderson street, NE, address; George H. Tribbie Jr., of a Frances street, SE, address, and James Howard Williams, of a Harold avenue, NE, address.

They were arrested at their homes, police said. The Osbornes were charged with disorderly conduct-manufacture of obscene pictures. Tribble was charged with manufacturing obscene pictures. Williams was charged with possession of obscene pictures.

Nasser Still Refuses To Budge On Suez Tolls in Note to U.S.

By HOMER BIGART

CAIRO, March 19—Egypt has sent a memorandum to the United States and other maritime powers describing how she intends to operate the Suez Canal after it is reopened.

Diplomatic sources said the proposals showed no change from the previous Egyptian position. On the crucial issue of payment of canal tolls, Egypt still rejects the Western proposal that tolls be collected by the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, with half going to Egypt.

KEEPS IT ALL

Egypt insists that she alone will sell all the tickets and keep all the money.

Egypt says she will earmark part of the tolls for canal improvement schemes. But the memorandum contains no hint that Egypt would accept an international body to advise on such schemes.

The memorandum reiterates Egypt's promise to "respect" provisions of the 1888 Constantinople Convention and provide "normal navigation with a view to insuring world peace and welfare." The statement professes that Egypt is "actuated by a sincere desire for resumption of the flow of shipping through this waterway, so that it may contribute to universal peace and well-being."

STANDS PAT

The memorandum contains no concessions for the West. But diplomatic sources were not too dismayed. They said the memorandum represented only the initial bargaining posture assumed by Egypt on the eve of talks with Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. secretary general. Egypt has not shut the door to concessions, they said, since the memorandum seemed to outline only an interim operation plan pending a final settlement.

It is understood Egypt first intended to publish the memorandum and then decided against it. It was felt that the memorandum sounded too unyielding and would put Egypt at a propaganda disadvantage.

JOLTS NASSER

Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser's government is reported genuinely astonished and dismayed at the violent reaction in the Western press to developments in Gaza. The government failed to anticipate that sending Egyptian administrators into Gaza would cause such a storm. Thoughtful Egyptians now concede that the manner and timing of Egypt's reentry into Gaza were "unfortunate."

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche returned to Cairo from Gaza today and conferred with Mahmoud Fawzi, Egyptian foreign minister. A U.N. spokesman said Bunche, U.N. undersecretary, sought "clarification" of the Egyptian attitude on the role of the U.N. Emergency Force in the Gaza strip.

ARMY WAITS

U.N. sources said Egypt had not shown a desire to send Army units into the Gaza strip at this time.

Meanwhile U.S. Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, chief of the U.N. salvage fleet, announced in Ismailia that Egyptian authorities finally had given him permission to start work on removing the frigate Abukir, one of the two remaining obstacles to Suez Canal navigation.

Wheeler was told he could start work on the Abukir Friday. The Egyptian Suez Canal Authority previously had barred Wheeler's fleet from this wreck, claiming it contained explosives. Wheeler believes the canal can be ready for navigation by April 10. Lifting operations on the other remaining wreck, the sunken tugboat Edgar Bonnet, will begin in a few days.

"CAUSE TO WORRY"

David Ben-Gurion

Israel Warns Of War If Gulf Is Shut

JERUSALEM, March 19 (AP) — The open threat of a new war emerged today from Israel's dismay at Gaza Strip and Aqaba Gulf developments since she turned over those battle-won territories to the United Nations.

Prime Miniser David Ben-Gurion said Israel's army will march against Egypt again if President Nasser "tries to block our historic and legal passage into the Gulf of Aqaba." He voiced these views in an interview with a Newsweek magazine correspondent, Curtis G. Pepper, at Tel Aviv.

"It would be a black day on the moral conscience of the world if we had to move our army to defend our rights," he said. "We will do it only as a last resort. But if forced, we will do it and do it effectively."

Ben-Gurion implied he hoped for backing from President Eisenhowever—"an honorable man, a friend and a general of armies"—on the basis of a letter Eisenhower dispatched to him during Isreal's early March crisis over the final pullout orders. Israelis have generally regarded that letter as a pledge.

If there is no forthright action by the United Nations, Ben-Gurion said, the Eisenhower Doctrine "could certainly be used to halt such a little man as Nasser."

"In his letter, the President stated we would have no regrets if we withdrew," Ben-Gurion said. "For me, this was more valid than any treaty between nations. That was the word not only of the President of the United States, but of an honorable man, a friend and a general of armies. . . . We do not have cause for regret yet, but we definitely have cause to worry."

100,000 Pupils Seen For DeKalb by 1967

DeKalb County school enrollment may soar to nearly 100,000 pupils within 10 years, Supt. Jim Cherry said.

Cherry said it is indicated the total enrollment will reach at least 98,000 by 1967 if the county continues to grow as it has the past decade. The 1957 figure is more than 400 per cent of the 1953-54 enrollment of 23,000.

An enrolment figure of 51,000 has been estimated for 1960.

Visiting Students Tell Probe Just Why Youths Go Wrong

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—High school students touring the Capitol turned expert witnesses today on why parents and children don't always get along and why some boys and girls go wrong.

The spur-of-the-moment testimony was given to a House Education subcommittee by students from the George Mason High School, Falls Church, Va., and the George School, Bucks County, Pa.

What they said drew this tribute from another witness, Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, acting head of the U.S. Children's Bureau:

"Those youngsters are making just the points we turned up after years of study. The only difference is, they're saying it better than we do."

Among the points the youngsters made were:

Parents are just about as hard to live with when they are too lenient as when they are too strict—anyway, they should be consistent.

The taunt "You're a sissy" from friends leads many a teenager wrong.

Grownups spend years keeping children busy with made-up things to do to keep them out of mischief, and then expect adolescents suddenly to develop wholesome interests for themselves.

There was even an outside expert among the teen-agers—ash blonde Annette Rossing of Berlin-Dahlem, Germany, an exchange student at the George School. Politely, in piquantly accented English, Annette said she found a great deal of materialism in America and young people "seem to be afraid to be independent and individual."

A hearing on a bill for federal grants to help states develop programs against juvenile delinquency had been droning along in routine fashion before the subcommittee. Chairman Elliott (D-Ala) spotting the young people who had filed quietly into spectators' seats, asked if any of them would help the subcommittee with the adolescent's point of view.

The students froze for a few minutes, then a girl stood. Before she had said much, hands were popping up and then it was the youngsters' hearing for the next half hour.

Lots of youthful badness is just restlessness, said Polly Stevens of Riverton, N.J. "Young children are encouraged to work it out—run, scream—while older ones are penned up for hours in school."

SteadyDating Called Pagan By Catholic

MILWAUKEE, March 19—The generally accepted practice of "going steady" on the part of the nation's youth is a "pagan activity" that threatens the Christian concept of marriage, the 25th National Catholic Family Life Convention was told there this morning.

The Right Rev. Msgr. Irving A. de Blanc, director of the Family Life Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, spoke at the opening general session of the convention which brought together more than 300 Catholic laymen and clergy for a three-day discussion of the role and responsibility of the family in the preparation of children for adult life.

"Going steady is pagan unless there is a reasonable chance of marriage within two years. The habit of going steady must be stopped if the Christian concept of marriage is to be saved," Msgr. De Blanc declared.

He went on to say that too many modern families do not provide the love for their children for which a substitute is often sought through steady dating.

Carrier-Based Navy Planes Attack Ike and Convoy With 'A-Bombs'

By W. H. LAWRENCE

ABOARD THE USS WOOD, March 19—President Eisenhower and the cruiser USS Canberra came under simulated atomic bomb attack today by Navy planes of the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Naval air arm staged its demonstration for the President in midafternoon as the cruiser bearing him to Bermuda was about 650 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla. The aircraft were launched from the carrier about 200 miles west of the three ships in the presidential convoy.

The sky was overcast at 12,000 feet and some of the more spectacular stunts planned were called off at the last minute.

To laymen watching from the escorting destroyers, the demonstration was not particularly impressive. Only two live bombs were used, and one of these was a dud, which failed to explode after it hit the water about one nautical mile behind one of the destroyers. The Canberra was about one and one-half nautical miles to the right of the bomb burst. Live rockets were fired by several of the jet and propeller-driven aircraft.

Maj. Gen. Howard McG Snyder, the President's personal doctor, reported to newsmen today that the President's cold has been eliminated, but that he still coughs occasionally and may continue to do so for some time. The ear inflamation which temporarily affected the President's hearing also has cleared up.

The President is due to land at Hamilton, Bermuda at 4 p.m. tomorrow where he will be greeted by Harold Macmillan, the British Prime Minister. Four days of conference will start on Thursday.

TRIPS OVER PENCIL

Nurse Stronach

2 Accusing Dr. Adams Trip on Poor Memories

By KENNETH LOVE

LONDON, March 19—The frailty of human memory became an issue today in the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams.

The accuracy of a nurse's testimony was tested and found wanting against her own handwritten record of an aged widow's decline toward death seven years ago.

Some of the most damaging testimony against Dr. Adams, accused of fatally drugging the widow to obtain a bequest, has come from four nurses who attended the woman. The nurses first testified at the pretrial hearing in January.

Today the doctor's defense lawyer, Geoffrey Lawrence, surprised the court by producing eight notebooks containing the nurses' day-to-day record of the widow's condition and treatment.

WIDOW CREMATED

The widow was Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell. She died Nov. 13, 1950, at the age of 81 in Eastbourne, a Victorian resort on the English Channel where many wealthy persons go to live in their old age.

Dr. Adams, a 58-year-old native of Randalstown, Northern Ireland, had practiced there since 1924. For two decades town gossip had commented on the fact that many of Dr. Adams' patients left bequests to him and were cremated after death, as Mrs. Morrell was.

After widespread police investigations that began last summer, the Crown based its prosecution on the case of Mrs. Morrell, but made supplemental allegations that Dr. Adams had murdered two other patients last year, also to obtain legacies.

"OUR WORD FOR IT"

Helen Rose Stronach, one of the four nurses, was on the witness stand when Lawrence referred to the treatment books.

"If only we get these reports now," he said, "we could see the truth of what happened night by night and day by day."

"Yes," Miss Stronach replied, "but you have our word for it."

Lawrence then produced the books. Taking Miss Stronach over her own entries, he obliged her to admit that her testimony had been in error in many instances.

"Having refreshed your memory from records made by you and your colleagues at the time," he said, "it was obviously quite inaccurate to say that Mrs. Morrell was semiconscious and rambling on the day you left, was it not?"

"Well, I have always believed she was, so far as my memory was concerned," Miss Stronach answered.

"Maybe," commented Lawrence, dryly.

The defense lawyer, a wizened figure in his white curled wig and black silk robe, then went over the treatment records with another nurse, Sister Annie Mason-Ellis.

DRUGS "REQUIRED"

He brought out that daily injections of morphine and heroin, in one-quarter and one-third grain doses, were "routine" in the treatment of Mrs. Morrell more than one year before her death. He drew admissions that Mrs. Morrell, who had suffered a stroke, needed the drugs and other sedatives to calm her "cerebral irritation."

Macmillan Flying to Ike Meeting

LONDON, March 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan left by plane tonight for what he called understanding and friendship talks with President Eisenhower in Bermuda.

He expressed confidence that "a great deal will be gained" from a frank exchange of views.

Macmillan was accompanied by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, U. S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney, and 39 advisers and secretaries.

They are due in Bermuda tomorrow morning after a stopover at Gander on their 3,600-mile flight.

Eisenhower is due there in the afternoon after a leisurely trip on a cruiser.

Behind him, Macmillan left a country crippled by a shipyard strike and threatened other strikes, and a strained economic position.

But he told an airport news conference he did not think the industrial crisis would shorten his absence.

He made it clear that his prime purpose will be to restore understanding and friendship with the United States after the coolness caused by the British-French invasion of Egypt.

"This is one occasion when the British will be quite frank and I feel sure the Americans will be quite frank about what they feel," the Prime Minister said.

Second Paper In N.Y. Raises Price to 10 Cts.

NEW YORK, March 19 (UP)—The New York Journal-American today announced that it will increase the price of its weekday papers from five to 10 cents beginning tomorrow.

The Hearst newspaper gave increased wages, and higher newsprint and operating costs as reasons for hiking the newsstand price. Saturday and Sunday papers will not be affected.

The Journal-American was the second afternoon newspaper to raise its price this week. Yesterday the Scripps-Howard World Telegram and Sun, announced a new 10 cent price effective today.

A Hearty Welcome To Our Teachers!

Atlanta rolls out the red carpet again today to greet a group for whom the entire state has warm affection and gratitude—our teachers.

It is the 90th annual convention of the Georgia Education Association and delegates and teachers numbering several thousand will gather to talk over educational problems, their own needs and aspirations and to enjoy fellowship and advice. Georgia will listen and the teachers, youngsters and education will profit.

It would be superfluous to repeat all the accomplishments of the association in bringing the people's attention to school problems. These have been many but by far the greatest achievement has been acceptance by the state of the Minimum Foundation Program and the very real and rapid progress made under this formula. The GEA deserves the lion's share of credit for this.

Not by any means have all the problems been solved. But thanks to the GEA, most of them are known.

In spite of the biggest building program in history, a shortage of more than 5,000 classrooms still exists.

While adjustments have been made, pay scales are below comparable professions.

Enrollments still are increasing at a rate of 30,000 a year.

While the GEA has been successful in selling much of its program to the state, it has not been quite so successful at the local level. Many communities still drag their feet in support while looking to the state to make up the difference.

Of late years, the GEA has become quite a potent political force, with influence in every county. Office seekers court its support. Gov. Marvin Griffin is expected to announce a salary increase of at least $100 in his address to the group this week. in addition to that assured by the Legislature in its chargeback action.

Let's hear the teachers and their views on current problems! And may their stay in Atlanta be pleasant and profitable and lead to better days for the state's children and for the teachers themselves!

Williams' Announcement A Mere Coincidence?

Revenue Commissioner T. V. "Red" Williams, who toys with the idea of entering the gubernatorial derby wearing the silks of the Griffin stable, has looked at his books and estimated he would collect from Georgia taxpayers about seven million dollars more than he had estimated.

In a neat display of political footwork, the commissioner quite properly and pridefully announced this just on the eve of the GEA's arrival in Atlanta.

It already was official unofficial news to them that the owner of the gubernatorial racing stable whose silks Mr. Williams will wear in the event he runs, would be able to pay the salary increase.

The cynical, of course, could deduct from this that the intent of the announcement was to place the spotlight on Gov. Griffin and Commissioner Williams and take it off Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver.

But, of course, only the suspicious among us would entertain such ideas. We believe it just happened that Mr. Williams hadn't checked up until just now. It was just a mere coincidence.

Cotton Patch No Longer Dominates Farm Picture

A recent survey in Walton County showed that for the areas visited, in at least nine of every 10 homes polled, one or more members of the family worked in either an industry or a business office.

That significant statistic is reported by the Walton Tribune in its 1957 "Special Agricultural Edition." The special edition is in itself a significant and fine production.

The editor says on the cover page, "King Cotton has soared and sunk, depending on weather, weevil, world peace and Washington. . . . Most other sources of farm income are also on the decline. . . ."

However, the Walton commentator goes on, the picture is not so bad. In fact, says he:

"The picture spells out a more balanced economy wherein all our eggs are not in one basket. Agriculture in itself has become diversified, and income has become diversified between agriculture and industry.

"The net result? . . . Take a look for yourself, in a leisurely drive around the 331 square miles of Walton County. You'll see more and more neat, tidy homes going up every day, more than this county has ever had. You'll see concrete evidence of a steadily rising standard of living, which has come to us by the blessings of a Divine Providence, rural electrification and a sound agricultural program blended with the integration of industrial opportunities for those who prefer a weekly payroll job."

It's good to hear that about Walton County.

You can say the same thing for the other communities which look ahead and plan.

It's a new picture, that's true. But it's a handsome replacement for the old print in which both foreground and background were filled with cotton patches.

Marshals Sales Probe Should Be Thorough Job

The grand jury apparently is attempting a thorough job in getting the facts about charges concerning irregularities in marshals sale. Sol. Gen. Paul Webb said Monday that sales records of Fulton Civil Court which appear to have been altered will be given to the State Crime Laboratory for examination.

The laboratory is being asked to try to find out if figures on the records which seem to have been erased can be made visible through chemical treatments.

This procedure is commendable. Questions arising out of the suspension and resignations of two deputy marshals should be answered, if possible. If there has been wrongdoing over a period of years, the jury should try to get to the source and indict the guilty parties.

The announcement yesterday that the jury is "determined" to correct any and all irregularities is encouraging.

It is quite evident that bookkeeping methods of the sales have been slipshod and lax. Surely some system can be set up which would eliminate the danger to hapless debtors as has been shown to exist.

It is incredible that such a situation could have existed this long without remedial action. The jury should do a thorough job and develop conclusive facts.

Spring Arrives Today With All Its Promise

It matters not which way the wind blows today.

Mild or gusty, the first day of long-awaited spring breezes in with its whispered promises of better things to come.

Spring is a symphony of freshness that flowers like a beautiful young bud as it bursts to unleash its fragrant perfume of maturity.

It is a season for new hope, new life, renewed vigor. Spring has its special kind of intoxication carefully concocted by the potent magic of nature.

This is the time of year for work and play and even a bit of foolishness. The sap is rising in trees and plant life. If some rubs off on homo sapiens, so much the better.

And, of course, any mention of spring requires a poem. Let us select a brief and beautiful lyric from one of the country's great poets, Herbert Byron Reece of Blairsville, Ga., titled, "Now That Spring Is Here."

"Now that the year's advanced to spring
And leaves grow large and long,
Forget each sorry and rueful thing
Hearing the wild bird's song.
"The leaf will fall, the bird will fly
And winter close the year,
But, O, put all such knowledge by
Now that spring is here."

So for the day, we can put aside all such worry and rueful knowledge as Col. Nasser, Gaza and Suez and greet spring with singing hearts, with lifted eyes, the knowledge we move toward Easter and the deep meaning of the Resurrection.

The Vicious Fire Ants Have Invaded the State

For no species of ant do we have an affection, from the common picnic variety to the flying kind.

But the fire ant, it seems, is an especially vicious pest.

He is a plague to man and beast alike. He attacks forests and fields. He can kill calves and pigs and even put people in the hospital.

He seems to have invaded Georgia from the south and has worked his way in numbers as far as Cordele. He has outposts in the Atlanta area.

So serious is the infestation we must ask federal aid, despite the fact that federal aid might mean federal control. But we hear no voice raised objecting to federal control of the fire ant.

The fire ant invasion is another of those campaigns in the eternal warfare—man against nature.

Eventually, man will win. He is smarter than the insect, he has more weapons at his disposal.

Always we must keep the border patrol on the alert. If it is not John Kaspers from the North, it is fire ants from the south.

The war against pests is ceaseless. We must be vigilant.

Creation of Board on Health of the President Urged To Judge Chief Executives' 'Fitness'

Atlanta — Again the question of who shall exercise the duties of the presidency of the United States when the President is physically or mentally disabled temporarily arises. The stumbling block is, of course, politics and the solution lies in the creation of a strong public opinion that would condemn bitterly any men who used the unfortunate situation to their advantage. No system will work without that.

The actual decision should be by nonpartisan professional men.

There should be authorized a permanent Board on the Health of the President consisting of the president of the American Medical Assn. and at least two or not more than four additional specialists to be named by him. They should recommend as to when the President is unable to function and their report should be filed with a governmental board.

The governmental board may accept the recommendations of the medical board or it may demand one reconsideration and the summoning of additional experts to be named by the medical board.

The vice president or the speaker of the House or the president of the Senate, whoever is in line, shall then assume the duties with full powers but as acting president until the medical board shall recommend to the governmental board that the President is able to resume his duties. At that time the governmental board must call upon the President to assume his normal duties again.

If anyone has a better idea, let's hear it. REALIST.

'High Moral Standard' Of Oil Industry Cited

Doraville—I should like to say that I appreciate Ralph McGill's column "That Messy Old Oil, and—."

Having been connected with the oil business for more than 30 years, I am convinced that the industry is rendering a worthwhile service to the public and doing it on a high moral standard.

I have been disturbed over the past few weeks at the great amount of press comments that were, by and large, detrimental to our industry; and as a result the public looks upon our industry with doubt and suspicion.

While the world is in such turmoil it is refreshing to know that there are men who will give credit where credit is due and enable the public to consider more rationally the problems before us. L. E. SINGLETON,

'Let the People Know More About the Atom'

Atlanta — It is encouraging to see new avenues of information opened up for those who want to know more about the sciences concerning defense. I have read that more explorations are possible for those who want to visit Oak Ridge. Many halls of science at Oak Ridge have been keeping visitors out, but now I understand the general public may come in and find out things.

We do not want to give any vital secrets to the Russian dictators, but the people must have reports on the operation of their government. If we do not have information for the people we will have a fascist government.

It was possible for the rulers of Japan to plan the attack on Pearl Harbor with the masses of the people of Japan unaware of the possibilities of such happenings. We would improve greatly our governmental affairs by letting the people know more about atomic energy.

Alert State Patrol, Stiff Fines Pay Off in Fewer Fatalities

The nation as a whole is losing the traffic war, but in Georgia we are winning some important and significant skirmishes. Deaths on the nation's highways last year were estimated at 40,000, one of the highest tolls in history.

These discouraging reverses in the war on traffic accidents have prompted Paul Jones of the National Safety Council to say that, having failed to conquer the Grim Reaper, we should turn to business and industry for help. He suggested that their know-how and resources may well be the secret weapon to win the fight against highway accidents.

Here in Georgia, we apparently have discovered an effective weapon—and it isn't a secret one. It is simply more concentration on police work done in patrolling our highways. And it has been rewarding.

Georgia highways are safer than they have been in years, the Georgia State Patrol said recently.

So far this year there has been an astonishing 38 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities in Georgia. If the present trend continues, the state could finish 1957 with 350 or 400 fewer fatalities than the 1,130 killed last year.

How did this happen? Simply by the addition of 50 troopers to the state patrol, which has increased enforcement approximately 20 per cent over last year; and it is now being done on a selective basis. That is, troopers are especially alert for violations which cause the greatest number of deaths.

There also are indications of a general tightening down by courts on traffic offenders.

There is nothing more effective in reducing highway deaths than turning the job over to disciples of the "get tough" school of thought. Business and industry might help some; but there is no substitute for alert highway patrolling and tough traffic judges.

Oldsters Have Time To Spend

Mr. E. L. Turner of Valdosta is 94 years old. Mr. Turner is not looking for a job. He has one. He is publisher of the Valdosta Times. He goes to the office every day. Right now he is actively engaged in supervising the building of a new home for his newspaper.

Not all nonagenarians are so situated as Mr. Turner. Neither are many octogenarians or septuagenarians. Most folks in the 70, 80 and 90 brackets are retired.

With many, money is no particular problem. They have enough to get by. What bothers them is time. Too much of it on their hands.

Many of the retired have ideas and skills that should be put to use.

With that in mind, the Senior Citizens Library Club of Atlanta has scheduled a Job Clinic in the assembly room of the Atlanta Public Library this afternoon at 2:30.

Dick Felts, consultant management engineer, will head a panel discussion.

Dillard Munford, the Atlantan who built do-it-yourself into a chain of stores, will be on the panel. So will Joe Murphy, the Social Security man; Holt Register of the State Employment (sometimes called Unemployment) Office; and Eleanor Plaxico, whose business likewise is helping people find gainful work to do.

In the nation 13 million people are now 65 years old or older. The Atlantan in that age bracket who can and would do more than sit should find this afternoon's clinic helpful toward getting off the rocker and on the payroll.

IN THE MAIL: From Gertrude Ruskin of Decatur, a note in regard to paper manufacture in the South. Mrs. R. refers specifically to a statement made here awhile back that a paper mill in Georgia circa 1840 was the first south of the Potomac River. Says she, "There was a paper mill in Warren County, Tenn., and according to the Carthage Gazette, it was in operation by the year 1811."

Mrs. Ruskin believes the Tennessee mill is where the Cherokee Phoenix got the paper to publish its first issue.

Snooze Was Ruined By Yellow Jackets!

It was one of those Sunday afternoons that linger in the memory, one of those rare days when everything was just right. The sun was warm but not too warm; the sky was a perfect blending of blue space and white clouds and the breeze was blowing just enough to make a low soft singing in the pine trees. It was the kind of day when a man feels like getting out and taking a nice long walk, breathing deeply of the fresh, pollen-laden air.

But the trouble about walking is that it requires the use of muscles long unused and you can't fully savor the beauties of a bright spring day when the breath comes wheezily and the sinews groan under a strain they do not wish to bear.

It was the kind of day that makes a man feel like getting out in the car and just riding around. But you can't enjoy the beauty of nature when you drive in fear that some woolgathering, spring-bemused fellow driver is going to come suddenly out of a side street and crunch your fender.

It was the kind of a day when a man feels like taking a nap in a room with the windows open behind the drawn blinds so that birdsong and the smell of flowers and the sound of the wind can come in to soothe him like a lullaby.

But somehow a man does not wish to sleep inside on so brave and fine a day.

So the best thing is a compromise that combines a little of everything. Walk a little—upstairs to the storage closet to find last year's faded and weather-beaten old hammock. Drive a little. About 10 feet, just far enough so the windshield on the car won't make a reflection that shines in the eyes.

Then lie down in the hammock in the dappled shade on the terrace and let nature's own sedatives take over—the feel of the sun and the wind, the faint scent of new flowers, the sound of crows calling far away and a wood sparrow singing close at hand. Then a man can snooze without missing anything, for he has only to open a sleepy eye.

It would have worked just fine, I guess, if certain members of my family who shall be nameless here, had not decided to play a joke on Papa. It was their happy thought to put bird seed all around his resting place and peanut butter in little dabs here and there so the birds and squirrels would swarm around him as he snoozed and they could take his picture sleeping there like a somnolent St. Francis with little creatures all around him.

But it didn't work. No matter how dearly the birds may love sunflower seeds, nor how hungry the squirrels are for peanut butter, they will not come close to a sleeping man.

But yellow jackets are bolder and yellow jackets love peanut butter. So suddenly in my sleep I feel a tickling here and there and stir about and all at once, zing, zing, zing, I am being stuck with red-hot needles as the yellow jackets sink their stingers in.

And, just in case the neighbors have been wondering, that is why last Sunday the peaceful day was rent with the sound of yells and imprecations couched in language unfit for delicate ears.

I just thought I'd better explain.

Seekers of Reward Miss the Real Joy

In the Bible we are told very little about the wife of Moses. She must have been a fine lady. Also, I wish the Bible had told us more about Hobab, who was Moses' father-in-law. However, in the 10th chapter of Numbers we do have a wonderful glimpse at him. After Moses had led the Children of Israel through the Red Sea he said to Hobab, "Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

Hobab replied, "I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred."

Then Moses made a second appeal. He said, "Leave us not, I pray thee; forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes." Hobab responded to that plea and did stay with Moses.

Now notice when Moses asked Hobab to stay with them, promising him a reward—"We will do thee good"—he refused. But when Moses asked him, pointing out that he could be of service, Hobab accepted. He refused the reward but accepted the service. Here are illustrated the two basic motives of religion. Are we seeking merely the rewards of religion or do we want the opportunities of service?

Today we hear many appeals to come to God because of what God can and will do for us—He will give us peace of mind, physical and emotional healing, power to overcome life's difficulties, success in daily life and many other things. And I fear that too many people are responding to religion just on that basis. Prayer is presented as a magic formula to satisfy our needs, wants and even our whims.

But we must remember that Our Lord said. "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister" (Matthew 20:28).

A fine young man came to talk with me the other day about whether or not he should enter the ministry. He was considering the various professions and weighing the advantages of each against the other. He said, "What does the ministry have to offer me?" As kindly as I could, I urged him to think of some other work. To go into the ministry thinking of what he could get out of it would bring nothing but heartache to him. One must enter the ministry in the spirit of giving all he has without thought of return.

You must come to the church thinking of what you can give to it— your time, service, money and prayers. And as you think of what you can do for the church, rather than what the church can do for you, you learn something of its purpose. The real joy of the Christian life is the service we give rather than in the rewards we receive.

Will Nixon Decide To Tour the South?

WASHINGTON—In the absence of our three top government officials simultaneously "on tour," with one in Africa (Vice President Nixon), another in Australia (Secretary of State Dulles) and the head man at large in the Atlantic (President Eisenhower)—it was only natural that those left at home should talk about our modern Ulysses, plural.

Because of an incident in Africa there has been much talk about Vice President Nixon. This question repeatedly popped up:

"When he gets home will he make a trip through the South?"

This was asked because in Africa the vice president ran into the Rev. Martin Luther King of Montgomery, Ala., and invited the leader of the bus integration movement to come here to confer with him when the vice president got back here.

What Rev. King is interested in he has made very plain. He wants the vice president to go South to investigate the civil rights problem of Negroes.

When President Eisenhower declined, after his triumphal reelection, to go South to make a major speech on civil rights, as Rev. King and other Negro ministers invited him to do, the Montgomery minister twice sent invitations to the vice president to come South and make a survey there as he had done of the Hungarian refugee situation from Austria. Both invitations were ignored. When the two met recently in Accra it was impossible for the vice president to duck the issue any longer and he resolved it by his invitation to Rev. King.

It will be interesting to see what will come of that — interesting, among others, to both the Northern and Southern wings of the Democratic Party as well, of course, as to the Republican Party, North and South.

You will recall how during the last campaign both President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon skirted carefully around the civil rights and integration issues. Neither was as forthright as their Democratic opponents, Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

But politically the Republicans were the gainers. In the South the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket won support both from the Negroes, who shifted in large numbers away from the Democrats, and from the white segregationists. It was a paradox that still confuses Northern Democrats.

The result, while good last November for the Republican national ticket which won five Southern states, has understandably been embarrassing since to the President and vice president.

There are ample precedents for our presidents and vice presidents to visit among our people to find out about pressing problems. Most recent was Eisenhower's visit to the drought-stricken areas of the Southwest where he consulted with the people there about their difficulties. That is basically an economic problem. The vice president, should he go South, would be concerned with the problem of human rights and human dignity.

Fluorides in Tooth Fillings Forecast by Clinic Speaker

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Fluorides may be added to materials for dental fillings in the future to help prevent recurrence of decay, a specialist in dental materials said in Atlanta Tuesday.

Dr. Ralph W. Phillips, chairman of the department of dental materials at Indiana University School of Dentistry, said decay often occurs around fillings.

Dr. Phillips, who will speak on dental materials at the Thomas P. Hinman Clinic at the Municipal Auditorium Wednesday, said that research studies already are being conducted on the addition of fluorides "in low concentration" to materials for fillings.

Dr. Phillips said sylicate (porcelain-like) fillings already contain a low concentration of fluoride.

The specialist said the "filling of the future" also may be chemically united with the tooth itself so there will be no leakage around the margins."

Scientific displays at the Hinman Clinic include an exhibit of the use of magnets to help patients who have trouble keeping artificial dentures in place.

Dr. Stanley J. Behrman and Dr. George F. Egan of the Cornell University Medical Center have found that denture retention is "aided by the magnetic attraction between magnets in the denture and magnets implanted in the jaw."

Hapeville's Street Drama In Last Act

By DON BAIRD

Hapeville City Council Tuesday night scheduled a last-ditch effort to bring paving to little Barton Drive, delayed eight months by the stand-fast tactics of citizen L. D. Jones.

A meeting to bring together all residents of the short dead end street will be held at 7:30 p.m., March 28, in the council chamber.

Notices will be delivered by special courier to all property owners on the street inviting them to meet in hopes of reaching a concerted agreement to decide the fate of the street.

The story began on July 3. A group of the residents asked Mayor Eugene Dixon for sewerage and paving. Residents in turn deeded over sufficient land to meet paving specifications of 40 feet, paid frontage assessment fees to defray paving costs, then sat back and anticipated the improvements.

But Jones refused to give up his land, contending that if he gave the city the land, the city should pay for paving.

Jones had paid $146 so his home would be tapped onto the sewer, but the city denied him the right on the grounds that he refused to give his land. Jones later tapped on to the sewer anyhow.

Jones attended the council meeting Tuesday night, and reiterated his convictions.

Mayor Dixon implied that if no mutual agreement can be reached he would consider the matter dropped.

Father of 5 Gets 6 Years as Robber

A 28-year-old father of five children was sentenced to serve six to seven years in prison Tuesday after he pleaded guilty in Fulton Superior Court to robbing three taxicab drivers.

The man, John W. Edwards of 853 Ponce de Leon Ave., NE, told Judge Jeptha C. Tanksley he committed the robberies after he "got in debt" and "lost my job," Asst. Sol. Gen. Tom Luck Jr. said.

A word to the wives

...OF BALDING MEN

Are you seeing more of your husband these days—more of his scalp, that is, and less of his hair? And are you getting a little tired of those cracks about your "old man"? You know, men usually feel as old as they look, and if hair loss is adding ten years to your husband's appearance, it's probably adding ten years to his disposition, too.

Well, it's up to you to do something about it!

For a lot of men get into a rut about their personal appearance. They console themselves and their wives with such out-of-date superstitions as "baldness is inherited" or "men normally lose their hair as they grow older." If your husband mutters these excuses and refuses to look in his mirror, then let this word of advice be sufficient: Voss Hair Experts, in 95 cases out of a hundred, can prevent baldness and improve a man's hair!

Neglect Causes Baldness

Baldness is the direct result—not of heredity, not of age—but of hair and scalp neglect. Baldness may start with dandruff you never see, packed down solid and hard in the hair tubes.

Perspiration salts, oils from the scalp, dust, and other foreign particles may actually be strangling your husband's hair to death. Even if he shampoos his hair frequently.

Voss Hair Experts can correct those conditions. Voss treatment cleanses the follicles of growth-choking dandruff and waste... restores vigorous circulation to hair bulbs...and stimulates growth of new hair.

You Make the Appointment

Take a good look at your husband. Wouldn't you like to see his hair start growing instead of going? And do you think he can be persuaded to do something about it before it's too late? Well, if he's the procrastinating type, YOU had better make an appointment today with the Voss expert to give him a free examination. The consultations are private. He won't be embarrassed. And the examination can be arranged at an hour most convenient for him. Or he can just come to our office.

Remember, too, what your husband learns at Voss, he can pass on to you at no extra cost.

New Jekyll Authority Takes Oath and Orders All Records

A new Jekyll Island Authority took charge of the state-owned coastal resort Tuesday and immediately called for all records, leases and other documents connected with it.

The new governing body officially came into being when Gov. Marvin Griffin swore in four of the five members. The fifth was ill and will take the oath later.

Within minutes after receiving the oath, the new authority met informally to discuss procedure for taking over the island.

The first move was to direct State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr., one of the members and likely chairman, to secure all records from the old authority which was abolished by the Jekyll Island Act.

The authority delayed organizing until all members can be present. This may come Wednesday.

Office space has been made available for the authority in the Judicial Building across the street from the Capitol. The old authority operated from a downtown Atlanta office.

"We're going to keep the operation of this authority as close to the members as possible," commented Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook.

Griffin administered the oath to Cook, Thrasher, Secretary of State Ben W. Fortson Jr. and Chairman Matt L. McWhorter of the Public Service Commission.

The absent member was State Parks Director J. W. Brinson. He probably will be sworn in Wednesday.

Integrated VA Hospitals Hit

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 19—Fifty-six Southern members of Congress today called on the Veterans' Administration to restore segregation in VA hospitals in conformance with local and state laws.

The entire Georgia delegation in the House of Representatives signed a petition for such action along with colleagues from Mississippi, North Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Virginia and South Carolina.

Rep. James C. Davis of Stone Mountain was among a group of the Southerners who personally presented the petition to VA Administrator H. V. Higley.

Noting that VA hospitals were authorized by Congress for the purpose of caring for sick and wounded veterans who need hospital treatment, the petition said:

"Nowhere in the law authorizing these institutions do we find any reference to the use of these agencies to put over racial or social reforms.

"Since September 1953 VA hospitals throughout the nation have been integrated often in violation of state and local statutes.

"We believe that the criticism which has been rising against VA hospitals can be allayed and the service which these hospitals render to both Negro and white veterans will be greatly improved by allowing state and local laws relating to segregation to apply.

"In the interest then of restoring the efficiency and the morale to these hospitals, we are calling upon you to authorize immediately the applications of state and local laws back to these institutions.

"We want both white and black veterans to receive the best treatment which VA hospitals can give; but we want these races segregated and hospitals run with the benefit of local laws covering segregation. Operated in this manner, they will have the support of both colored and white veterans."

'Killer in Bloodstream' Wins Its Battle With Pastor but His Faith Is Victorious

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 19 (AP)—An Arkansas minister and church editor, who wrote a widely publicized editorial last year revealing he was doomed by leukemia, died of the disease at a hospital tonight.

He was the Rev. B. H. Duncan, 67, Little Rock, who retired as editor of the Arkansas Baptist Weekly a few months after his article, "My Rendezvous With Death," was published.

"There is a killer in my bloodstream," Duncan wrote last August. "How long it can be kept subdued neither I nor the doctors know."

The soft-spoken pastor said he wrote the editorial at the urging of a friend, who told him it was "worth more than a thousand sermons."

Duncan said the doctor's verdict of impending death did not shake his religious faith.

"The question was hurled at me," he wrote. "Will my life be an example of what I have preached? Does death look different, now that it has come so near to me? Am I willing to rest my case upon the assurances I gave the others through the years?"

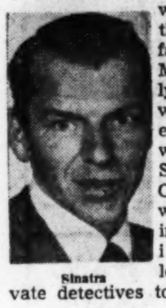
His answer:

"The same assurances of God's word which had met the needs of others is sufficient for me. The same Christ . . . is also my comforter. After a thorough heart-searching I found that I could add nothing new for my own counsel."

Determined to live "a full life while life lasts," Duncan kept at his editorial post until three months ago. With Mrs. Duncan at his side, he chose his casket.

Just Went Along for the Ride, Sinatra Insists to Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES, March 19 (AP)—Frank Sinatra said he told a county grand jury today that he just went along for the ride on the famous Joe DiMaggio - Marilyn Monroe wrong-door episode. That is what he told a State Senate Committee which recently investigated information leaks from private detectives to scandal magazines. Two other witnesses testified.



Sinatra

One said he also told the same story the senators heard—that Sinatra actually participated in a raid on the apartment building where the DiMaggio's divorced wife was visiting. That witness was private detective Phil Irwin, who held the camera on the raid that backfired.

Blast Kills 4, Wipes Out Plant

TACOMA, March 19 (UP)—Four men were blown to bits today in an explosion which obliterated the gelatin packaging plant at the Columbia Powder Works near here.

The dead were identified as Buddy Albert Coon, Tacoma; Richard Nelson and Robert D. Schultz, both of Yelm, Wash., and James Capps, Fredrickson.

Prod France On Algeria, Nixon Asked

TUNIS, March 19 (AP)—Cries of "Freedom for Algeria!" confronted Vice President Nixon at nearly every turn here today. He toured the city amid cheers and applause from thousands of Tunisians celebrating their own independence from France.

Premier Habib Bourguiba added his voice to these demands by urging the United States to convince France of "the great dangers to world peace" as long as it refuses Algerian demands for liberty. France recently liberated the former protectorates of Tunisia and Morocco but claims Algeria is part of France itself.

Bourguiba made known his views at a news conference climaxing Nixon's busy day of handshaking, sightseeing and conferences with Tunisian labor, business, farm and student leaders.

Earlier the vice president and Mrs. Nixon laid a wreath at the American military cemetery near ancient Carthage. He stood silent on a windswept hill in tribute to the 2,840 American servicemen buried there and to the 3,750 missing in action whose names are inscribed in Memorial Court.

Montgomery Bans All Integrated Athletics

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 19 (AP)—The Montgomery city commission today passed an ordinance to prohibit racial integration in all athletic events in Montgomery and making it a misdemeanor to violate the ordinance.

Introduced by Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers, the new law was approved unanimously by the three commissioners, all of whom are members of the White Citizens Council.

The ordinance prohibits racial mixing at baseball, football, basketball and softball games in the police jurisdiction of Montgomery and includes all other athletic contests.

The owner, proprietor or manager of any place where integration is "knowingly" permitted in sporting events would be guilty of a midemeanor under the new law.

One effect of the ordinance will prevent baseball teams which have Negro players from playing in Montgomery unles they agree to compete without the Negro players.

Montgomery is a member of the class D Alabama-Florida League.

Red Cry 'Fantastic,' Says Dixie Council

NEW ORLEANS, March 19 (AP)—M. A. Wright, president of the Southern Regional Council, said yesterday that a charge his organization was formed by Communists was "fantastic."

Wright was referring to testimony by Manning Johnson of Washington before a Louisiana joint legislative committee investigating Communist influence behind racial disturbances.

In a letter to State Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the joint committee, Wright said:

"It is not my province here to evaluate Mr. Johnson's charges against other groups, but I can say unequivocally that the statements which he is quoted as making about the Southern Regional Council are utterly false.

"If this witness made the statements attributed to him under oath, he is guilty of the grossest kind of perjury."

Wright, who said the Southern Regional Council was founded in 1944, listed the incorporators as Bishop Arthur J. Moore of the Methodist Church, the late Dr. Charles S. Johnson of Fisk University, the late Dr. Howard W. Odum of the University of North Carolina, Dr. Rufus E. Clement of Atlanta University, and Ralph McGill of The Atlanta Constitution.

"The council has never been influenced by Communists or had the slightest sympathy for Communist doctrine. Any sober scrutiny of its record will confirm this fact," Wright wrote Rainach.

In Atlanta Ralph McGill said Johnson obviously confused the Southern Regional Council with the old Southern Conference for Human Welfare. He said it was an error "commonly made by uninformed persons."

GEA Wants School Aid From U.S.

an acceptable bill can be passed. But they haven't sold many politicians.

With such notable exceptions as State School Supt. M. D. Collins, most Georgia state and congressional leaders are cool to federal school aid. Their fear is federal control. And the segregation crisis has made them more wary.

How do the people feel about federal aid?

The politicians evidently think they are in tune with the thinking of the people, else there wouldn't be an almost solid front of Southern opposition in Congress to school aid from Uncle Sam.

Yet a recent Gallup Poll showed that 70 per cent of Southerners surveyed on the subject favored federal construction assistance.

NEED NOT DISPUTED

The need for more classrooms in Georgia is not disputed. In spite of a record $200,000,000 construction program nearing completion, the Department of Education says the state still needs 5,340 new classrooms to meet expanding enrollment.

About half the state's school districts have classroom shortages. And the cost to meet the need is upwards of $90,000,000.

Under President Eisenhower's proposed school bill, Georgia would get almost $48,000,000 over a four-year period for classroom construction. A Democratic bill would be even more generous.

There's nothng new about federal school assistance to the states. It goes back to Abraham Lincoln's administration and the Land Grant College Act.

NOW GETS $25 MILLION

Georgia now gets almost $25,000,000 a year from Washington for specialized educational assistance programs. This includes money for such things as vocational education, vocational rehabilitation, school lunch and milk programs, veterans training, surplus food and property and direct aid to local school systems whose enrollments have been swelled as a result of federal military and defense establishments.

These programs, however, were initiated before the Supreme Court's 1954 antisegregation ruling. Any general school aid bill now will face a certain civil rights fight.

For one thing, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Negro who bolted the Democratic ticket last fall, will attempt to amend the bill with his proposal to bar funds from states maintaining segregated schools. With almost solid Republican backing, Powell attached his amendment last year to a school construction bill later killed by the House.

Even if Congress should enact a bill without an antisegregation rider, some Southern congressmen fear funds would be withheld from segregated states by administrative action or by court action. This is one underlying reason why so many congressmen from Dixie oppose federal aid—with or without the Powell amendment.

They fear, in fact, that such a fate is eventually in store for the federal school programs already in existence.

Red Cross Fund Reaches Fifth of Goal

The Greater Atlanta Red Cross fund campaign passed the $100,000 mark Tuesday.

Reports received at noon luncheon meeting showed that the employe group had collected $50,569.92 and the public employe group reached $25,883.34.

An additional $35,000 in initial gifts from corporations and large donors, added to a previously reported figure of $11,699.19, brings the total to $111,453.26.

The 1957 goal is $588,300 plus 10 per cent for emergency relief funds. Receipts to date are slightly less than one-fifth of the goal.

G. Arthur Howell Jr., Atlanta attorney and former co-chairman of the Red Cross campaign, told the group the Red Cross fund drive "is the easiest campaign in Atlanta. You don't have to sell the Red Cross, it sells itself."

Brewster Racing Stable, Expense Account Probed

and meet other of Brewster's personal expenses.

"I didn't know that was done," Brewster claimed.

Some of the bills might have been paid without his knowledge, he said, by the late John Sweeney, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters Western Conference. Brewster said he made out "some checks in blank" and Sweeney might have filled them in.

STORY UNFOLDS

As the committee unfolded the financial story of Brewster and the nation's largest union, with the help of checks, affidavits and expense vouchers, evidence was produced to show some of the union funds from member dues went into:

A $35,000 apartment at Palm Springs, Calif., which Brewster said, in disputed testimony, was for union members and outside tenants.

Brewster's $400 membership in a country club there—he said it was for entertainment of a "lot of employers."

EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Brewster expense accounts for hotels, meals and incidentals on identical days to the international union and its Western Conference. Accountant Carmine S. Bellino said Brewster got $900 from the international and $1,214.89 from the conference on that basis in 1954 and the pattern was much the same in 1955.

A total of $612.85 in gift certificates put out around Christmas time in 1954. Brewster said "I believe I did receive some."

Payment of tailor bills for Brewster and others.

A $4,000 down payment on a home Brewster bought at lush Palm Springs, Calif.

Expenses of some $2,000 or more for his jockey, his race horse trainer and the trainer's son, a union employe who exercised Brewster's horses, and repairs on his six-horse van.

The purchase of boxes at six California race tracks—$2,670 in 1954 and 1955.

Much stress was laid on the mystery of what happened to nearly $100,000 of the dues of Seattle Local 174 while Brewster was its secretary-treasurer before stepping into his top job with the international union.

Kennedy said the money supposedly went in and out of a "special fund" of Local 174 but:

"We have checked and found no such fund exists."

Brewster said it did, for perhaps 13 years.

Brewster contended the money—$99,999.65 from June 1950 to November 1953—was for cash contributions to local, county and state political candidates; to nearly anybody who "knocked on the door."

Fire Ants Refuse To Bite At Challenge by Reporter

Georgia counties, particularly in Decatur County.

William Blasingame, director of the Georgia Department of Entomology, said that the pest has invaded some 40,000 Georgia acres.

In a House Agriculture subcommittee hearing in Washington the ant was described as particularly vicious, capable of killing calves, chickens and small pigs, destroying wild life, ruining farm land and stinging people so that hospitalization is sometimes necessary.

Blasingame urged that persons observing large ant mounds, six or more inches high, call his department. Mounds reach up to two or three feet in height, with an average colony of 25,000 ants.

The Chamblee hills are about 18 inches across at the base and at least that high. No accurate census was possible of the ants at home Tuesday, but the 25,000 seemed to be a conservative number.

Maybe the Chamblee ants don't know their reputation yet.

CONSTIPATED?

new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks

without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

AND, OF ALL LAXATIVES, only COLONAID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAID's great moisturizing capacity plus COLONAID'S stretch-stimulating bulk that activates normal colonic reflexes. So effective that it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has been proved safe even for women in the most critical stages of pregnancy.

SUPERIOR TO OLD STYLE bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; does not interfere with your absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; and in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other side reactions.

IT'S A PHYSIOLOGICAL FACT: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Whether occasional, frequent or chronic, whatever your degree of constipation, get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! The price, only 98c for the economical 60 tablet package, brings you positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

STILL A MAN'S WORLD

Girls Can't Climb To TV's Top Rungs

By PAUL JONES

Some critics think perhaps the girls may be finding TV sledding too rough.

With one or two noteworthy exceptions the feminine stars have found it difficult to reach top TV stardom. For the most part, they have been forced to be content with subordinate roles.

That might have been the trouble when Janet Blair announced the other day she was quitting the Sid Caesar show.

Like Imogene Coca and Nanette Fabrary, who preceded her as Caesar's partners, Janet found she never really felt she achieved the stardom to which she felt she was entitled.

TV has been good to the girls—but it still is a man's world.

True, Arlene Francis is drawing down a reported $300,000 a year for her Home show and appearances on What's My Line. Betty Furness is supposed to get $100,000 for peddling electric ice boxes.

Dinah Shore

But, few of the girls have attained the prominence of Perry Como, Ed Sullivan, Jackie Gleason, Phil Silvers and some of the other "wheels" in the television industry. None of the girls has found the popularity they enjoyed in the movies or on the stage easy to come by in television.

MARTHA RAYE held her own with the men for one season on NBC-TV. But, she found the pace too quick.

None of her sister performers has been able to do as well. Gracie Allen, Gale Storm, Lucille Ball, Eve Arden, Harriet Nelson and Ann Sothern have all earned a fat living in the situation comedy format — but there's always been a man around to help them do the show. Jane Wyman and Loretta Young have headed up dramatic shows with little assistance from the male contingent.

Jeannie Carson

Jeannie Carson now is moving to the fore with a clever Sunday afternoon comedy program.

And Gisele MacKenzie and Dorothy Collins, both stars of the Hit Parade, will likely go "out on their own" in musical shows next fall.

DINAH SHORE now is the girl most likely to move into the top bracket of TV stardom. She will become a sort of female Como next season.

Miss Shore, a native of Nashville, has used her grace and charm, showmanship and singing voice to move into an enviable spot as star of a series of hour-long spectaculars. She is the only girl so honored by the networks. The sixth of Dinah's 60-minute spectaculars will be presented Friday night at 9 p.m. on Channel 2. Pat Boone will be her guest. It will be in color.

All of the girls are pulling for Dinah to move into the Top Ten. And a few of us guys are, too.

A FRIEND OF OURS swears he tuned in his radio and heard this: "We have just received a bulletin concerning a catastrophe the likes of which has never been known to mankind—but first a word from our sponsor."

DIAL TWISTERS—One thing about pay-as-you-go TV is that it won't require the services of Trendex to count heads.. The cash register will give an accurate audience rating. . . . Despite the continued surge of "21" many observers in TV feel that the large money quizzers will be dropped from the new schedules next year. . . . Robert Sarnoff, NBC president in Atlanta Monday and Tuesday, said networks would continue them. . . . Willard Parker, star of Texas Rangers, gives this advice: "Keep smiling. It makes everyone wonder what you've been up to."

"MY FAIR LADY" STAR—Edward Mulhare, who won overnight fame when he took over for vacationing Rex Harrison as star of "My Fair Lady" on Broadway, has a new fair lady in actress Undine Forrest for his television debut as star of "Night of the Plague," on Kraft TV Theater, Wednesday at 9 p.m. on Channel 2. Mulhare and Miss Forrest are shown outside the Mark Hellinger Theater where "My Fair Lady" is playing.

COLOR PRESENTATION

Wonders of Human Heart Will Be Unfolded Tonight

Special to The Constitution

HOLLYWOOD, March 19—You may not think so, but, if you're like everybody else, you're hard-hearted.

This is explained in CBS-Television's "Hemo the Magnficent," the story of blood, its circulation and the heart, to be presented in color over the CBS-TV network (Channel 5) at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Produced and directed by Frank Capra and featuring Dr. Frank Baxter and Richard Carlson, "Hemo the Magnificent" is second production in the Bell System's Science Series.

The fact that we are all hard-hearted is shown in this special presentation. The heart is the body's hardest-working muscle. That adds up to 108,000 heart-beats a day, 756,000 heart-beats a week, 3,240,000 heart-beats a month.

Since the heart can normally pump one quart of blood in 10 seconds, that means it is pumping around 8,640 quarts of blood every 24 hours without stop.

Your heart could, at this rate, fill the gas tank of your automobile in 10 minutes; fill a tank truck in 10 hours; fill the average home swimming pool in 10 days, and, in 10 years, fill two ocean-going tankers.

And, this hard-working little machine weighs about three-quarters of a pound.

"Hemo the Magnificent" is sponsored by the Bell Telephone System.

YOUR TAX—NO. 4

Be Careful In Listing Earnings

tion of a scientific, literary or other achievement you would have performed anyway the prize or award is considered a gift and is not subject to the tax.

Most scholarships and fellowships are exempt from tax, unless they are paid as compensation for services and research. If your son or daughter won a scholarship you do not have to count the scholarship in figuring support to determine whether you can claim him or her as a dependent.

Sick benefits generally are not taxed as income. In addition to the deduction allowed for medical expenses there are other benefits which the tax law permits. The following items may be received tax-free from your employer or his insurance company:

1. Payment for medical expenses.
2. Payment for permanent injury.
3. Payment under Workmen's Compensation law.
4. Payment up to $100 per week for loss of wages while you are absent due to injury or sickness, except that the first week's pay is taxable unless you are absent because of an injury or are hospitalized for at least one day.

'SICK PAY' BENEFITS

This last item is important and relatively new in U.S. law. The State of Georgia does not recognize this exclusion for state returns. If "sick pay" benefits from your employer are included in the wages shown on your withholding slips, you should subtract the proper amount from your income in the place provided on the first page of the tax return, form 1040. Attach an explanation as described in the instruction book. You may exclude this amount even though you do not itemize your deductions.

You are allowed a deduction for medical expense beyond 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income on your federal return. On the State of Georgia return the deduction is limited to that amount beyond 5 per cent. If you, or your husband or wife, are 65 or over the 3 per cent limitation on the federal return and the 5 per cent limitation on the State of Georgia return does not apply.

In itemizing the various medical expenses you may deduct premiums for health, accident, hospitalization and medical insurance, but you must reduce your medical expenses by the amount of any benefits received from such insurance.

DIVIDENDS

Anyone who owns stocks needs to know about the dividend exclusion and credit. This applies only to dividends from corporations which are subject to the U. S. corporation income tax and does not include dividends from savings and loan associations, credit unions or foreign corporations.

You may exclude the first $50 of qualified dividends each year; that is, no federal income taxes are paid on the first $50 of such dividends. Husband and wife are each entitled to exclude the first $50 of dividends on stocks that each owns.

If you received dividends beyond this amount you may claim a "dividends received credit." This credit is 4 per cent of the remaining dividends but cannot exceed 4 per cent of your taxable income or the amount of tax otherwise due. The credit is not just another deduction from income—it is actually subtracted from your tax.

For example, if you received $1,050 in dividends last year you can exclude $50 from your taxable income and subtract $40, 4 per cent of $1,000, from the tax you would overwise pay.

WIDOWS AND WIDOWERS

The federal tax code has several provisions of special interest and benefit to widows and widowers:

(1) You may file a joint return with a husband or wife who died during the year if no separate return is filed for him or her.

(2) If you have not remarried and have in your household a dependent child or stepchild, you may for the next two years use the same tax computation (with income-splitting privileges) as you have been entitled to on a joint return.

(3) When life insurance proceeds are taken as an annuity or in installments, the interest on such insurance up to $1,000 per year received by a widow or widower is tax-free.

(4) You may be entitled to a deduction for child care expenses.

(5) You may be entitled to retirement income credit if your deceased husband or wife would have qualified.

The instruction book which comes with your tax forms gives further information. Help is also available by telephone or at the offices of the Internal Revenue Service and the Georgia Department of Revenue. If you seek professional help, be sure to consult a qualified advisor.

Christians Shouldn't Balk At Seeking Public Office

QUESTION: I am a leader in our community and have been urged to enter politics. Do you think it is a thing a Christian could and should do, seeing there is so much crookedness in politics? —W.S.

ANSWER: If you are gifted in administration and interested in politics, then you should be active, not only as a civic duty, but as a Christian responsibility. Because there are some dishonest men in politics, that is no reason why good men should stay out. In fact, it is the best reason why they should actively participate.

Citizenship places certain responsibility on every man. Jesus said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's." This seems to include more than just money. Your influence is also necessary. In every category of life there will be found undesirable people. Jesus even had Judas. Certainly the 11 disciples did not refuse to be disciples because of Judas. Neither should you withdraw, but rather make your Christian influence be felt in every area of life.

Stanley Appeals 2nd Conviction As a Receiver

Robert E. Stanley, 33, has been convicted by a Fulton Superior Court jury here of receiving stolen goods in connection with the theft of $1,694 worth of furniture from an Atlanta firm in 1955.

Stanley, who has a long record of traffic offenses, was released on a $10,000 appeal bond after his attorney filed a motion for a new trial.

Stanley was convicted in the same case last year and sentenced to serve five to seven years. The conviction was reversed by the State Court of Appeals and the case was sent back to the Fulton court.

The jury Friday set Stanley's term at one to five years. The verdict ended a trial which began Tuesday with the selection of the jury. The jury heard some 29 witnesses and saw 87 exhibits in the trial.

Stanley was charged with purchasing furniture which he knew was stolen at the time he bought it. It was taken Feb. 3, 1955 from Myers-Peachtree Co. The furniture was on exhibit in the courtroom during the trial.

The furniture was found in a residence by police.

Cromer Asks for Sick Leave

Fulton County's former chief jailer has asked for sick leave until the end of the month from his new job.

Cromer, who has 19 years' service with the county, presented a medical certificate to the County Civil Service Board Friday to show he is suffering from hypertension, varicose veins, chronic arthritis and other ailments.

It was explained that these ailments make it difficult for Cromer to perform his new duties as chief of Superior Court deputies. Cromer was transferred to the job at his own request because he said he felt Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes should not be blamed for criticism of the jail administration.

At the same time, it was learned that Sheriff Grimes has asked the Civil Service office to prepare a new register of deputy sheriff IIIs, Cromer's classification.

There are only five such positions in the sheriff's office and none of the other deputies in such classifications are expected to leave anytime soon.

Alderman L. O. Moseley Runs Again

L. O. Moseley, member of the board of aldermen for 19 years, Wednesday announced his candidacy for re-election from the 1st Ward in the May 8 city primary.

L. O. Moseley

As chairman of the purchasing committee for 13 years, Moseley has, with his colleagues, bought millions of dollars worth of city services, supplies and contracts. He said, "Not a finger of suspicion has ever been leveled at our committee during all those years."

He has served as a member of the purchasing group during his entire time as a member of the city's legislative body. Many grand juries have complimented the methods and system used in making city purchases and in awarding city contracts.

Moseley also pointed out that he has served for years as a member of the important public works committee.

"In view of the proposed $86,930,000 joint Atlanta-Fulton County bond issue, tremendous expansion and huge outlays are sure," the alderman said. "We need experienced leadership and continued honesty in government.

'I sincerely feel that my long service will help me in administration of this huge program for the continued growth and progress of our great city."

Moseley also is now serving on the ordinance and legislation, public buildings and grounds, tax and library committees of the aldermanic board.

264 Circuits Hit As Power Fails

Failure of a piece of equipment at a repeater station near Tucker, about 30 miles northeast of Atlanta, disrupted service over many leased wire systems Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Southern Bell Telephone Co. said 22 systems carrying a total of 264 circuits were affected by the trouble which started at 12:57 p.m. and was not entirely cleared out until 2:20 although most of the circuits were restored in 30 to 45 minutes after the failure.

The company said regular long distance service was little affected by the trouble which involved mostly privately leased wires such as those used by wire services and business houses.

Skidding Car Kills Atlantan

COVINGTON, March 19 (AP)—The automobile of a 43-year-old Atlantan threw him out during a heavy rain, spun around on the wet pavement and crushed him to death.

Sheriff John Berry said reports reaching him was that Sam Edward Teeter of Atlanta was returning Monday with a friend from fishing at Snapping Shoals on South River.

Teeter's auto, the sheriff added, went out of control between Snapping Shoals and Conyers, on Georgia 212, hurling him and his friend, Mrs. Myrtice Hill of Decatur, into the road.

Berry quoted Mrs. Hill as saying that despite the downpour of rain she managed to scramble out of the path of the careening car but that Teeter was caught and crushed.

Funeral services will be held for Teeter at Concord Thursday. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Teeter, Concord; a son, K. E. Teeter, Kannapolis, N.C., and two daughters, Mrs. D. E. Henson and Mrs. J. C. Harris, Concord.

Truce in Towns Dispute Releases Fund to Schools

A Republican-Democrat feud over the office of Towns County school superintendent has been relaxed to permit blocked state school payments to the county to resume, it was learned Tuesday.

But the court battle over who is the rightful claimant to the office will go on.

Both contenders have agreed to let the Democratic holdover, Ray Nicholson, serve as the de facto superintendent in order to sign requisitions for state school money for teacher salaries and other uses.

The funds have been blocked since last December by the disputed election. State School Supt. M. D. Collins had threatened to bring legal action by the state to settle the issue.

But Collins said if all parties sign the proposed agreement he will permit the payments to resume.

Nicholson was defeated last November by Republican Unseld Garrett. But Nicholson contended Garrett was not eligible to serve because he had failed to comply with a law requiring him to qualify with the State Board of Education.

As a result, both men have claimed the office. The Bank of Hiawassee brought court action to determine who is entitled to the office.

The agreement provides that, pending final determination of the suit, school checks will be signed by Nicholson and will not have to be countersigned by any other party.

Girl Scouts Burn After 9-Hr. Paddle

By MARJORY RUTHERFORD

SIX ADVENTUROUS Northside Girl Scouts already have their first sunburn of the season.

Diana and Becky Bean, Tillie Page, Nancy Lowe, Elizabeth Stafford and Theresa Arnold made a nine-hour canoe trip through rapids and shoals from just below Buford Dam to Roswell Bridge. The 16-year-old paddlers are members of Troop No. 5, sponsored by Peachtree Road Methodist Church. Especially outdoor-minded, the troop has also chalked up two cave explorations this year. Leaders reported of the canoe expedition: "No mishaps — but some peeling noses!"

"BEST THING about the old-fashioned blacksmith," reminisces Atlanta Kiwanian, "was that when you brought him your horse to be shod, he didn't think of 40 other things that needed fixing."

LADY SHOPPER encountered a neighbor hovering over potted geraniums at that fascinating sidewalk flower show in front of a downtown Atlanta department store.

"Are you going to buy those?" she asked.

Her friend took a long sniff of the fragrant red blossoms, but shook her head decisively. "No," she said, "if I did, I'd just have to water 'em."

Brinda, Linda Mayfield

SEEING DOUBLE? Twins Brinda and Linda Mayfield frequently convince observers that their eyes are deceiving them.

The pretty 14-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lowe are Roosevelt High ninth-graders. They live at 777-D Eloise Court, SE. The identical twins have the same taste as to clothes and hairdos. (They decided simultaneously to crop their blonde locks in the style shown in Bob Dendy's photo here.) But Brinda and Linda are finicky about wearing their own clothes. To make sure they don't mix their wardrobes, the girls embroider a "B" or an "L" on each garment.

Griffin Vetoes Bill Curbing Driver License Suspensions

Gov. Marvin Griffin Tuesday vetoed a bill which would have stripped the public safety director of authority to suspend drivers' licenses of speeding violators.

He also killed a resolution authorizing construction of a new governor's mansion, but signed a bill to crack down on groups such as the NAACP which inspire law suits.

Tuesday's action by the governor completed work on the 526 bills and resolutions passed by the General Assembly this year. He vetoed six altogether.

In vetoing the bill which would have curbed the highway patrol's power to deal with speeders, Griffin said "all possible means should be used to reduce this needless slaughter of our citizens," on the highways.

He said highway fatalities due to excessive speed have "increased to tragic proportions." He said the law on license suspensions should be left as it is.

"This administration is committed to a program of increased highway safety," Griffin declared, "and if one life is saved by my actions, I shall consider this veto well worthwhile."

Griffin said he had killed the new mansion proposal because the money could "be more effectively spent on new school buildings for which there is a greater need than for a new executive residence."

11 Candidates Are Added for May Primary

A third contest developed for the May 8 city primary Tuesday as 11 candidates threw their hats into the arena.

Ald. Milton Farris, incumbent for position 2, 7th Ward, will run against Calhoun Long, attorney.

Two aldermanic contests were assured in qualifications Monday when lists were fist opened. Forty candidates have qualified and have paid $32,100 in entrance fees.

First Ward Ald. James E. Jackson is opposed for the second position by Joe Salem, and Ald. R. M. (Bob) Clark, position 2, 8th Ward, is opposed by E. Sam Jones and Goodwyn Cates.

Franklin Rodgers qualified to succeed himself as a member of the board of education from the 4th Ward and Harold F. Jackson, sales executive, qualified to succeed Neil Baldwin, 2nd Ward board member. Baldwin has not announced whether he will offer again.

Eight members of the city executive committee qualified to succeed themselves as follows: L. W. Pressley, position 1, 1st Ward; G. B. Sawyer, position 2, 2nd Ward; Miles Amos and Austin Welden, Negroes, for the first and second positions from the 3rd Ward; Sam Massell Jr., committee secretary and incumbent in position 2, 5th Ward; Sol Benamy, committee treasurer and holder of position 6, 6th Ward; Mrs. Robert L. MacDougall, committee chairman, and holder of position 1, 8th Ward, and Mrs. Henry Toombs, holder of position 2, 8th Ward.

Didn't Kill Her, Toler Insists, Then Dies in Reidsville Chair

By KEELER McCARTNEY
Constitution Staff Writer

REIDSVILLE, March 19—A prayer on his lips and protesting his innocence, Big Doc Toler died in the Georgia electric chair today for the hammer slaying of an Atlanta office secretary.

Toler was one of three Atlanta Negroes electrocuted on murder charges. The others were Don Mitchell Coleman, 19, who was convicted with Toler in the June 1, 1956, rob-slaying of Mrs. Inez Johnson, 30, and Robert Lee Elder, convicted of killing two Negro women and burying them in the back yard of his home.

Atlanta officers had hoped that Toler could shed light on four similar robberies and slayings which occurred in the year preceding Mrs. Johnson's death. Police Chief Herbert Jenkins and Detective Superintendent Glyn Cowan came to Reidsville Saturday to question Toler. Failing then, they returned Tuesday.

"I ain't never kilt nobody," Toler protested in his cell on Death Row a few moments before the execution. "I was there when that woman—Mrs. Johnson—was killed, but I didn't kill her."

Coleman, arrested at Cleveland, Ohio, at first was quoted as saying he struck Mrs. Johnson with a hammer. Later he said both he and Toler participated in a $2,400 payroll robbery and that Toler struck Mrs. Johnson while she was begging for her life.

Tobe Says

Red Emerges As Spring Color

It's rare that red emerges as an important spring color in anything except accessories; it's much more apt to flash across the winter fashion scene. But this spring I find that many women have a real hunger for something red. Perhaps it's because they find red a cheerful note in these worrisome times.

At any rate, the red coat ranks high on the list of spring fashions, particularly in tweeds, both monotone and mixtures with white. So do red print dresses and red flower hats. And in accessories, red bags and red shoes are a popular choice to wear with gray or navy, or black and white checks.

World Changes Quickly For Young Children

Little Miss Braids gazed deeply into the fire and sighed. "Things just aren't the same any more," she sighed.

"What things?" Daddy asked.

"Just things. Things aren't."

"Aren't what?"

"Aren't the way they were when I was young."

Miss Braids is 7. Her parents sometimes think she is much older than they. Sometimes she sees things they never can see, and sometimes she teases.

"Well, you know," said Daddy, thinking two could tease, "we have been telling you for a long time to stop growing because if you keep on growing you will grow up."

"I have to grow up,' she said calmly. "I can't be 7 forever. But things aren't what they were before I was 7.

"Don't you remember what they were like then?" she asked desperately. "I used to be able to stand at the top of the stairs and fly down. I could take a step, just one, and be at the bottom."

The grownups didn't remember. "You've been reading 'Mary Poppins'," Daddy said. Mary Poppins is the famous nursemaid of literature; she often flew.

"KNEW WHAT BIRDS SAID"

Miss Braids was hurt. "No," she said. "I could fly long before I could read. And I knew what the birds said."

"What did the birds say?"

Her lips began to tremble. "That's just the trouble. I can't remember it any more!

"But I remember talking to them so well," she went on, terribly puzzled, "and to the flowers. Don't you remember how the flowers and I used to talk?"

Daddy nodded. Certainly she had talked to the flowers. She had talked to everything she saw or confronted. The family had not been aware the flowers talked back.

MOON WAS FRIEND

"Even the moon was my friend. I used to wait for him to smile in my window. Oh, it was all so wonderful!"

Her face was luminous in recollection, but suddenly sobered again. "And now it's all gone."

And she, too, was gone, to bed, but behind her a radiance lingered.

"She thinks she really did," Daddy said softly.

"I'm sure she did," Mother said. "How does it go? 'Turn wheresoe'er I may, by night or day, the things which I have seen I now can see no more. Heaven trails about us in our infancy. Shades of the prison house begin to close about the growing boy.' "

"I hope she remembers about it," Daddy said. "I hope she remembers to miss it."

KRANTZ TWINS, WAYNE, LEFT, AND DENNIS VIEW WINNING ENTRY

Narcissus Show Judges Stumped By Number, Quality of Blooms

By YOLANDE GWIN

The Spring Narcissus Show opened Tuesday—an hour and a half late. The judges couldn't make up their minds.

The blue ribbons gave out—they have to be a certain shade of blue—because there were so many winners.

A record was set in the more than 200 individual entries. And even at that, there were more than 4,000 blooms bowing to spring, plus artistic arrangements scattered all over the third floor of Rich's and in the little auditorium where the horticultural exhibits were shown.

FROM NORTHERN IRELAND

There was a box of blossoms flown here especially for the show from Guy Wilson of Broughshane, County Antrim, Northern Ireland. They were set out at just about the 11th hour by Mrs. Jack Sandler and Mrs. Max Orenstein who had to go to U.S. Customs early Tuesday to claim them.

The show, sponsored by the Atlanta Garden Center under the auspices of the Georgia Daffodil Society and the American Daffodil Society, will continue through Wednesday.

Judges had a rough time trying to decide on the top winners, but finally Miller Thompson of Stone Mountain won the silver prize as sweepstakes winner. He also received the silver prize with his entry "The Duke of Windsor" as the best in a collection of three of a kind.

TRI-COLOR RIBBON

Mrs. E. Raymond Smith of Macon had the finest horticultural specimen with her "Spellbound." With it she also won a silver prize and the tri-color ribbon of the Garden Club of Georgia.

Mrs. Wailes Thomas of the Four Seasons Garden Club won a silver prize as well as the tricolor ribbon of the Garden Club of Georgia for her artistic arrangement.

Col. Clifford C. Early, a retired Army officer, won the Georgia Daffodil Society's silver prize for his collection of nine different varieties.

The silver prize, plus the perpetual trophy for a collection of 25 different varieties, went to Mrs. T. E. Tolleson.

Notable among the entries were those by children under 16 years of age.

The silver prize for the best exhibit went to the entry from the Peachtree Hills Club.

Judges picked the "Pride of Heemstede" entered by Mrs. L. M. Awtry Jr. of Acworth as the best single entry of a variety introduced since 1348, It was awarded the Cary Quinn prize.

"SPRING ARRIVES"

The artistic arrangement class, "Spring Arrives with Daffodils," was set up in fashion aisles at the store. Exhibitors ran the gamut of imagination from an arrangement offset with figurines of cherubs making love to a more streamlined down-to-earth arrangement set off with a brown thrasher on the wing.

Blue ribbon winners were Mrs. J. W. Meadows of the St. Charles Club, Mrs. George Doughtrie of the Sope Creek Club, Mrs. C. P. Bagley of the Johnson Estates Club and Mrs. H. P. Williamson of the Town and Country Club, plus Mrs. Thomas who was top winner.

The invitation class winner was Mrs. L. L. McMullen of the St. Charles Club.

Non-competitive arrangement done by Mrs. Sandler and Mrs. Orenstein, many times top winners in the show, featured blossoms bunched in a ceramic container in the shape of a turtle and offset by a grinning Peter Rabbit.

Forsythia Club Meets Tuesday

The Forsythia Garden Club will meet Tuesday, March 26, with Mrs. Perry Blackshear at 2500 Woodward Way, NW. Mrs. George Hoyt, Mrs. Frank Holden, Mrs. J. T. Rose and Mrs. Arthur Paty will be the assistant hostesses.

Mrs. E. B. Worsham will discuss "Flower Arrangements Using Figurines."

New officers to be installed by Mrs. Hoyt will be Mrs. Wayne Rivers, president; Mrs. W. R. Brewster, vice president; Mrs. Ernest Rogers, treasurer; Mrs. Paty, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Codington, corresponding secretary.

Rhododendron Club to Hear Mrs. Patterson

The Rhododendron Club will meet Wednesday, March 27, at 12:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. A. Worth Hobby, 1740 Meadowdale Ave., N.E.

Mrs. Walter Slayden will be in charge of the program and Mrs. Fred W. Patterson will speak on international affairs.

Celestine Sibley

Monstrously Talky 'Lady'

It was humiliation enough to my children that we didn't have a television set but they simply couldn't bring themselves to confess the most shameful truth of all: Mama lost it!

Three or four years ago—I forget exactly when; time passes so fast—we had a television set and it fell ill. In the middle of some program it conked out and to my television-conditioned children it was a calamity like unto floods, fire and pestilence. So I called a repair man to minister unto it and when he had finished tapping its chest and taking its pulse his diagnosis was . . . well, something costing $40 or more.

"Take it away," I said. "And if I ever get $40 again I'll let you know and you can bring it back."

That, as I say, was some years ago. A few times there have been things I yearned to see and once or twice I toyed with the idea of calling that repair man but it always seemed more practical to go to a friend's house. (This is practical in many ways if you time your visit right. Hardly anybody has nerve enough to sit down to a meal without asking you to share it, I find.)

But it wasn't altogether satisfactory because, although it kept the children out of the house a great deal, it was fast alienating our television-owning friends. So one day in a brash and profligate mood I decided to call the repair man and ask him how he was coming with our sick set.

Does anybody have an idea how many television repair men there are in Greater Atlanta?

There are exactly 10 pages of television repairmen's numbers in the yellow section of the phone book. They run all the way from telescopes to temperature regulators and tennis court constructors. And not one of them ever heard of me and my television set!

I tried the brisk, business-like approach, taking it for granted that I had the man who had my television set. I wheedled and cajoled and apologized for the passage of time—all to no avail. You would think that a television set picked up three or four years ago was on a par with an Edison phonograph, pitifully old-fashioned and antiquated—even if they had it. And none of them did. Besides, they pointed out, I surely had a receipt for it or at least a card bearing the repair man's name and address?

There's no use letting every television repair man in Atlanta know that you are the kind of housewife who keeps all kinds of little slips of papers and cards—but all the wrong kinds. That's like confessing to a department store that you never can find a sales slip or to the bank that you lost your deposit slip.

So I rented a television set.

For a week and a half we've had one in the house and I declare it's exactly like having some monstrously talky old lady cousin living with you. It never shuts up. Wherever you go the sound of its voice follows you—accusing, confiding, berating, or just prattling. I've heard more musical commercials, more idiotic jokes and more drama of the oh-god-the-pain-of-it school than I imagined this world held. My conversation with the children has become limited to five words: "Supper's ready" and "Turn it DOWN."

Still I marvel at the good things that are to be seen and heard. It's true I burned the soup looking at an excellent British movie. I hate to miss the news. There are some programs that come so close to being good that you pass up your bed and your book to spend half an hour or an hour just to be sure you're not missing anything.

The children, pointing to the rental fee, assure me that it's expensive for us not to look at the television—and I'm torn. I could send it back tomorrow. In fact I probably will—but I'd better look at the programs first.

Subdued Flattery Keynote in Bras

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER

For you with the full figure, your brassiere can be more important than your outer garment.

Particularly is this true this spring when fashion with the new, lady-like attractiveness is demanding that your figure be near perfect.

Subdued flattery is the watchword in selecting the right bra. No longer can the bosom be over-accentuated. The new silhouette should be high but with a natural appearance and a definite division.

These were the observations made by Miss Audrey Lances, a recent visitor in Atlanta with a line of bras that were designed to go "all-out" to achieve the new fashion.

An important part of the showing was the swimsuit with the built-in bra.

This designer has chosen softly printed cotton with the hand of silk and fashioned swimsuits that fit like formals. The bra has a wire at the top with boning going to the waist. It affords a complete center separation giving the figure a well-controlled look.

DEALS IN FIGURES
Miss Audrey Lances

A matching skirt comes with the swimsuit and you can add it and have a sun fashion.

This designer was one of the first to build bras on wire, and comfort is the first consideration in this line of bras. Hers are triple-wrapped and cushioned for comfort and ease. She pays careful attention to detailing that prevents shoulder strain and midriff cutting.

For dresses featuring the low-back cut, there is a style in these bras that meets at the waist back in a V-point for a completely backless look. It's strapless, too. Beautifully engineered, it remains firm—up in the front, down in the back—through bending and moving around.

There are many styles and many fabrics to choose from in these bras. They are bandeau and long line. All are cut on the bias so as to conform for comfort. Their magic is in the fit.

These bras are available in Atlanta. For shopping information, call JA. 2-5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card to the Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS 1 OUT OF 3 DOES!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults. Perfected by Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for 100 years.

Lenten Tips

A Tuna 'Bunwich' Fits Meatless Bill

So many modern-day sandwiches are good made on buns that the "bunwich" has become a luncheon institution.

The one that follows is especially for Lent, and any other time that you want a good tuna salad sandwich.

This new culinary creation makes a fine meal with just a few tomato wedges to go along.

TUNA SALAD SANDWICHES

1 7-oz. can tuna, drained, flaked
⅓ cup chopped celery
2 tsps. chopped sweet pickle
⅓ cup salad dressing
Salt, pepper
4 round buns
Margarine or butter, melted
4 slices pasteurized process American cheese
8 peeled tomato wedges

Combine the tuna, celery, pickle, salad dressing and seasonings to taste.

Cut a 2½-inch circle from the top of each bun and remove the center of the bun with a fork. Brush the inside of each bun with margarine or butter and fill with tuna salad.

Bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees, 20 minutes. Remove from the oven, top each with a slice of cheese and the cut-out round of bun. Heat again until the cheese melts.

Serve hot, garnished with tomato wedges.

Mother Bosses the Family

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am a 17-year-old boy and a senior in high school. I am fairly well liked, get better than average grades, hold several honorary positions in my school, have an excellent job in which I make little money, but gain valuable experience for my future.

I participate in many school activities, don't smoke or drink, but I have a miserable home life. I have a lot of friends but my parents think I am "impossible." Naturally, I do not agree.

Mother "wears the pants" in the family and works outside the house. As a child she had to live in poor surroundings, with little money and it seems as though she wants the same for me. Mother and I disagree, mostly on two things—"How much work should a 17-year-old senior high boy do at home" and, "Should he be allowed to use the family car?"

I do a good share of the daily household chores, including washing dishes twice a day. I think I should be allowed to use the car, at least occasionally. Mother flatly refuses to let me.

My dad should (but doesn't) have a say. He often takes my side but is quickly shut up by mother. In school I have learned that family differences should be discussed, but here it is impossible. Mother refuses to have any kind of social life and she's "always right" in her own mind. I really feel sorry for her because she does work hard.

Our family has an average income and a nice home, but mother is not enjoying life now any more than she did when she was a child. I'm becoming frustrated and wonder what I should do. Should I work around the house and do the dishes? Should my parents allow me to use the car? I value your opinion and would appreciate a quick reply.

As you requested, several identifying parts of your letter have been deleted. It appears that your mother is a thoroughly bitter, disillusioned woman who, because of her unhappy childhood and marriage, has many personality "scars" which may never really heal. Her hidebound restrictions and lack of tolerance for the opinions of others are the results of her unhappy life and, unfortunately, it seems you are a victim of her bitterness.

Speaking as a mother of a son, I think she is wrong in believing you should have it tough just because that has been her lot in life.

I think she should be very proud of your accomplishments and should encourage your ambitions in every way possible.

You should be willing to help around the house, but your sister and father should do their part, too. In fact, since your mother has to work, the whole family should "pitch in" and work together as a team so no one individual will have to do more than his, or her, share.

If you are trustworthy and have a license to drive, you should be allowed to use the family car. But, judging by your letter, I doubt that you can change your mother's mind about this or any other matter. I suppose there is some justification for her attitude in view of her life-long feeling of insecurity.

It won't be long before you will be on your own and, in the meantime, you should make allowances for your mother's harshness and be as tolerant as possible. After all, in spite of her faults, she apparently has contributed a great deal to the family, at least financially.

After reading your letter, I am convinced you are a boy who has what it takes to go far so start looking forward to the shaping of your own life and make a determined effort to realize your ambitions.

Since you want to be a professional man, I hope you can make arrangements to enter college in the fall. If your family cannot help you, there are scholarships available for boys of your intelligence.

Do not allow the unpleasant situation at home to get you down. Do your part and strive to build a future which holds a happier, more meaningful life than that which your parents have had. Good luck!

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 club
Pass	1 heart	Pass	4 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of diamonds.

It is not our purpose to suggest that slavish compliance with partner's signals in defense of an adverse contract is always indicated, but such signals should not be disregarded on a mere whim. Sometimes, to be sure, a defender has in his possession certain data which is not available to partner.

In such cases, he is privileged to choose a line of defense which is more effective than the one partner has in contemplation. Today's hand offers an example of a case in which East made an altogether intelligent signal which West justifiably overrode because he had pipe lines of his own.

North took no chances on being dropped somewhere along the line and went all the way to four hearts.

West opened the ace of diamonds. East played the deuce. West then shifted to the ace of clubs and East contributed another deuce. From his standpoint, a club continuation did not appear advantageous, inasmuch as he could visualize the defeat of the contract if his king of spades could be established before his king of clubs was dislodged.

Had West sheepishly followed the dictates of his partner and shifted to a spade, declarer would no doubt have run home with his contract. But West did some thinking for himself.

Even if East held the king of spades, which his play indicated, declarer could still not be prevented from winning the hand, for the defense would cash only one diamond, one club, and a spade. West's continuation of the club was based not on obstinacy, but on the conviction that he knew something which East did not—namely: that East's king of spades might not live and that the contract, in any event, could not be defeated unless East held the king of clubs.

When East won with the king, he had no choice but to return the suit for the game saving ruff.

KEEP WELL: Some Chest Pain a Result of Angina

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Some individuals with angina pectoris have a normal heart but develop chest pain whenever their blood sugar level is low (hypoglycemial). These persons respond better to a lump of sugar or a piece of candy than to a nitroglycerine tablet.

Hypoglycemia is not a common cause of angina. It is suspected when chest pain develops several hours after eating, when the amount of sugar in the blood has run low. Chest pain may be associated with other uncomfortable symptoms such as sweating, palpitation, pallor, anxiety, and increased pulse rate.

The heart needs sugar, or energy, and if it does not receive this nourishment the organ's complaint is in the form of pain. Hypoglycemia is detected by a simple bloodtest and anyone with a questionable angina should have this done.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions relating to health and hygiene in his column, and by mail when self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Letters should be addressed to Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, c/o The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta 2, Ga.

Angina pectoris in its usual form is more frequent in the opposite condition—diabetes mellitus. But the high blood sugar level in this disease is not the cause of chest pain.

Diabetes is associated with hardening of the arteries, which develops earlier and in more severe form in diabetics than in men and women of a comparable age who do not have diabetes. Keeping diabetes under control with diet and insulin delays the hardening process. In this respect, the cause of angina pectoris and coronary thrombosis in the diabetic is the same as in the nondiabetic.

In coronary disease, the arteries are narrower than normal. They are wide enough to deliver nourishment to the heart muscle when the old ticker is beating a normal rate. But when it speeds up due to exertion or excitement the needs of the pumping apparatus cannot be met. Resting for a few moments or using a nitroglycerin tablet brings relief.

The pain of angina is located beneath the breastbone over an area covered roughly by the necktie. The sensation is described as a feeling of pressure, burning, or constriction. •

Solons Need Aid

BRADENTON, March 19—Juan Pizarro and Pedro Ramos were warming up for their recent St. Patrick's Day pitching duel on the Milwaukee reservation, and over by the Washington dugout Chuck Dressen was rehashing the old days with Edd Roush.

Roush was a star outfielder with Cincinnati in 1925 when Dressen arrived on the major league scene as an infielder. And they were talking about how some of the players now want the dugouts upholstered; and they were wondering how long some of the modern pitchers would last against the oldtimers, and why they want to throw a lazy man's curve called the slider.

Outlar

Dressen was enjoying the conversation much more than he had a few minutes earlier when the subject had been the 1957 Washington Senators. Perhaps it was because there was so much more to talk about.

In the nation's capital, where relief is administered to every nook of the world, no one has helped the Senators. Even a congressional investigating committee would be able to determine the Senators are again cast into an exclusive race with Baltimore and Kansas City for sixth place in the American League.

If Washington finishes sixth, the season must be considered a success. If the club climbs higher it will be a miracle, and a tribute to Dressen's ability as a manager. And he is one of the better pilots, proving at Brooklyn he could win when blessed with the hosses. For the eleventh straight season, the Senators seem relegated to the second division.

Leaning against the batting cage, as the Senators took their batting practice strokes, Dressen discussed his club.

—Something Old and Nothing New

"We have more catching depth than anywhere else," he said. "There's Clint Courtney, Lou Berberet and Ed FitzGerald.

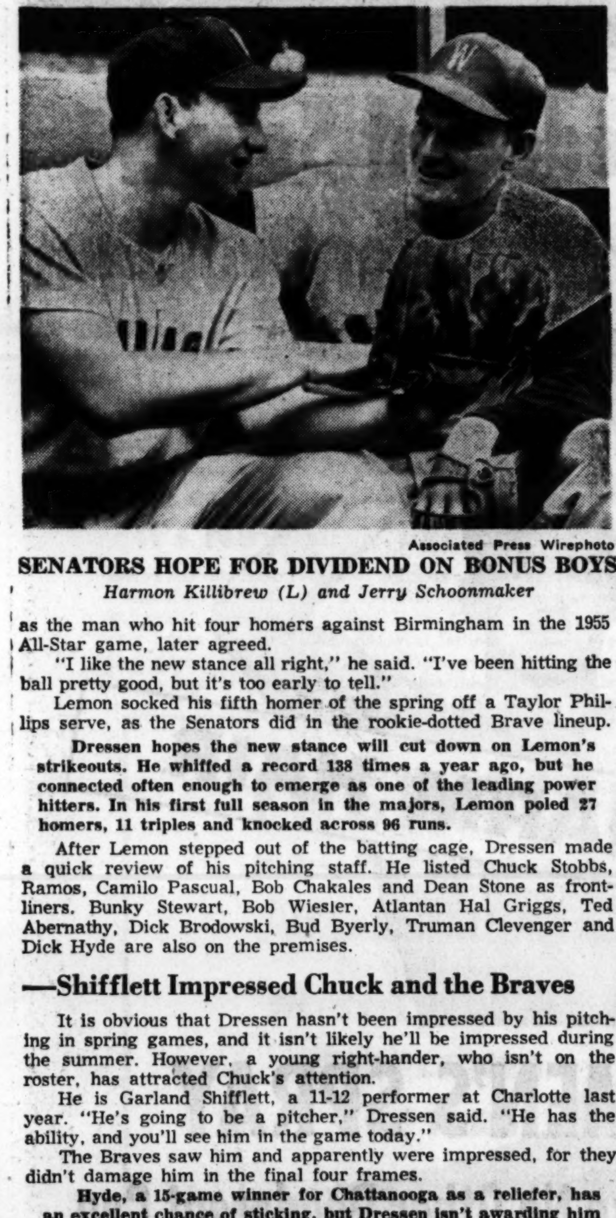
"Pete Runnels is doing all right at first, and Herb Plews is playing second, with Eddie Yost at third. Jerry Snyder and Jose Valdivielso are alternating at short.

"Jim Lemon is in right, Roy Sievers in left, and I don't know about center. Karl Olson and Herzog have been out there."

About that time, Lemon stepped up for his practice swing, and it was mentioned that Dressen had planned to alter the outfielder's batting stance.

"That's right," Dressen said. "See, I've got him crouching, not as much but something on the order of Stan Lopata. Maybe he needs to bend over a little more, but I think it has helped him."

Lemon, who is best remembered in the Southern Association as the man who hit four homers against Birmingham in the 1955 All-Star game, later agreed.



Associated Press Wirephoto
SENATORS HOPE FOR DIVIDEND ON BONUS BOYS
Harmon Killibrew (L) and Jerry Schoonmaker

"I like the new stance all right," he said. "I've been hitting the ball pretty good, but it's too early to tell."

Lemon socked his fifth homer of the spring off a Taylor Phillips serve, as the Senators did in the rookie-dotted Brave lineup.

Dressen hopes the new stance will cut down on Lemon's strikeouts. He whiffed a record 138 times a year ago, but he connected often enough to emerge as one of the leading power hitters. In his first full season in the majors, Lemon poled 27 homers, 11 triples and knocked across 96 runs.

After Lemon stepped out of the batting cage, Dressen made a quick review of his pitching staff. He listed Chuck Stobbs, Ramos, Camilo Pascual, Bob Chakales and Dean Stone as frontliners. Bunky Stewart, Bob Wiesler, Atlantan Hal Griggs, Ted Abernathy, Dick Brodowski, Bud Byerly, Truman Clevenger and Dick Hyde are also on the premises.

—Shifflett Impressed Chuck and the Braves

It is obvious that Dressen hasn't been impressed by his pitching in spring games, and it isn't likely he'll be impressed during the summer. However, a young right-hander, who isn't on the roster, has attracted Chuck's attention.

He is Garland Shifflett, a 11-12 performer at Charlotte last year. "He's going to be a pitcher," Dressen said. "He has the ability, and you'll see him in the game today."

The Braves saw him and apparently were impressed, for they didn't damage him in the final four frames.

Hyde, a 15-game winner for Chattanooga as a reliefer, has an excellent chance of sticking, but Dressen isn't awarding him a job at the moment.

Stobbs, who read 15-15 with last year's seventh-place edition, is again the bellcow of the pitching staff. Ramos managed a dozen triumphs, but his ERA was 5.27.

Forgotten man in the Senator camp seems to be pint-sized Ernie Oravetz, a part-time outfielder for the last two years. The former Chattanooga Lookout hasn't played an inning this spring, and his future seems doubtful. Lyle Luttrell, in and out of Washington almost as much as a political senator, probably will return to the Chattanooga infield. Tony Roig, who spent some time with the Senators last season, may also be shipped out.

Jerry Schoonmaker, called into the service on opening day last season, is one outfielder Dressen must keep. The former Missouri halfback is a bonus boy with promise. Neil Chrisley and Dick Tettlebach are among the outfielders present.

The most exciting Senator with a bat in his hands is Sievers, who has established new homer records for a Washington player three seasons in a row. A year ago he swatted 29 to break his own record of 25. He also drove in 95 runs, and was the lone Senator named to the All-Star cast.

Now that the versatile Runnels has taken over first, Sievers will do full-time duty in the outfield. Dressen is satsified with Runnels' work at first, the fifth position he has played for Washington. He came up from Chattanooga as a shortstop, shifted to second, played some at third, and tried the outfield before moving to first.

Ellis Clary, the witty Valdostan with the needle tongue, skipped the visit to Bradenton to direct the reserves in a B game, but Dressen reported Clary has had the entire camp laughing with his quips. It's nice that Coach Clary will be around this summer, for there'll be many long nights when manager Dressen will need some laughs.

Stuart Hits Two HRs, Bucs Win

Rookie's Blasts Sink Chisox, 9-8

TAMPA, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Rookie slugger Dick Stuart hammered two 400-foot homers to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-3 exhibition baseball victory over the Chicago White Sox today.

Stuart slammed his first homer off Billy Pierce with one aboard in the first inning and the other was a solo off Gerry Staley in the ninth. He fanned his other three times at bat.

Stuart now has collected five homers and eight strikeouts in four games this spring.

The Pirates thumped Pierce, Bill Du Four, Bill Fischer, Tom Flanigan and Staley for 15 hits. Pierce yielded three runs and five hits in the first three innings. The Bucs roughed up Du Four for five runs and eight hits in the next three innings.

Lonnett's Homer Wins

LAKELAND, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Joe Lonnett, a reserve catcher, greeted rookie John Tsitouris with a home run as the first man up in the 11th inning today and the Philadelphia Phils handed the Detroit Tigers their eighth exhibition defeat against two victories, 6-5.

Tsitouris was the fourth Tiger pitcher and Lonnett was the first man he faced. The Phils added another run in the same frame on three consecutive singles.

The Tigers had prolonged the struggle with a run in the ninth after two were out. A walk, a throwing error by Hamner and a single by Ray Boone produced the tally.

McDougald's Double in Ninth Gives Yanks 6-5 Win Over Braves

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Gil McDougald's clutch double in the ninth, driving in two runs, gave the New York Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves in a spring training game today.

Warren Spahn, pitching the first five innings for the Braves, limited the Yanks to seven hits but the ace southpaw's successor, long Gene Conley, blew a 5-2 lead as the New Yorkers posted their seventh victory in 11 exhibition games. Tommy Byrne, pitching three hitless, scoreless innings in relief of Bob Turley, got credit for the victory.

Milwaukee had one consolation. The Braves broke the Yankees' string of scoreless innings at 24 in the first frame.

Two homers accounted for the Yanks' first four runs. Mickey Mantle belted one in the fifth, driving in Billy Martin ahead of him, and rookie Woody Held hit for the circuit in the sixth with Bobby Martyn, his former teammate at Denver, aboard.

Felix Mantilla, Braves' shortstop candidate, got three hits in four trips to the plate, including a triple.

Groth A's Hero

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Johnny Groth's 10th inning drive over the left-field fence gave the Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today in a battle of home runs.

Brilliant relief pitching by rookie left-hander Carl Duser staved off a Dodger rally in the top of the tenth inning.

Gino Cimoli, Don Zimmer and Duke Snider hit homers for Brooklyn off starter Ned Garver, and Gus Zernial hit his third homer of the year off Ralph Branca in the A's 5-run first inning.

Tom Gorman, who took over from Garver in the sixth, held Brooklyn scoreless until Duser came on in the 10th.

Cracker Bats Crack, But Braves Win, 8-7

Dud Whitley Homers Twice, Prater Gets One for Atlanta

By AL THOMY
Constitution Sports Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19—The ending was the same here Tuesday afternoon, but the script had been altered considerably before the Atlanta Crackers lost their third straight game to the Wichita Braves, 8-7.

This was the day the Crackers began to hit. Youngsters who had batted little except the breeze during this exhibition series suddenly found solid lumber in their paws, whereupon they assaulted three Wichita pitchers for nine hits, an excellent day for the heretofore timid Atlantans.

This was the day second baseman Bill (Dud) Whitley connected for two home runs his first two times up, in the first and second innings. Earlier in the day he had hit two out of the practicing park.

This was the day Ruben (Rube) Prater, a rookie from Waco, Ga., slammed a two-run homer and a run-producing single to put the Crackers temporarily ahead 7-6 in the top of the ninth.

This was the day Bob Montag got his first hit of the new season, and he made it two for good luck. And this was the afternoon righthanded pitcher Jim Umbricht sent a towering triple over the centerfielder's head.

This was also a weird day. Buddy Bates, who has given out of ready pitchers, borrowed two from Wichita's Ben Geraghty.

Righthander Winston Brown, who pitched four good innings, did a creditable job but Noel Mickelsen, another righthander who had it rough against the Crackers earlier in the series, was shelled from pillar to post in the ninth as the Braves rallied their victory.

The losing pitcher was a member of the Wichita Braves!

Wichita had its moments. Outfielder Bob Talbot struck a three-run homer in the second inning to narrow the count to 5-4. Catcher John Grace, an Atlanta player on the Wichita squad (this getting confusing?), tied it at 5-5 with a left-field homer in the sixth. First baseman Poochie Hartsfield continued his assault on Cracker pitching with two singles and an RBI, and righthander Phil Paine, an ex-Cracker, was the winner after Paul Dean and Paul Cave worked the early rounds.

Rube Prater Dud Whitley

It appeared Mickelsen might get the Crackers a triumph when Talbot popped up to open the ninth. Bob Jacobs then doubled and scored on Morrie Lerner's single. Hartsfield followed with another single. Bob Hazle's sharp liner went through second baseman Sammy Hernandez for an error and the ball game.

Whitley homered in the first for

Bradley Belts Xavier In NIT Meet, 116-81

Braves Shatter Old Tourney And Garden Scoring Records

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Bradley's second-seeded Braves piled up the biggest score ever made in college basketball in Madison Square Garden and the 20-year history of the National Invitation Tournament tonight by beating Xavier of Ohio, 116-81, and Temple again made Dayton the NIT "bridesmaid" by winning, 77-66.

Tonight's winners will meet in the second of Thursday's semifinals. The other game will bring together St. Bonaventure and Memphis State, winners last night over top-seeded Seattle and Manhattan, respectively.

Bradley outscored Xavier, 42-6, in the first 8½ minutes of play in the second half, giving the Braves a 28-point lead. The Braves outscored Xavier, 72-29, in the second half.

The old NIT scoring record was 110 points by St. Louis in the 1955 tournament.

Shellie McMillon, 6-5 center from Chicago, tossed in the record-breaking field goal with about two minutes to play and Bradley added five more points before the end.

The second contest, played before a Garden crowd of 10,543 was a somewhat tight affair which matched the individual play of Temple's Guy Rodgers against the ruggedness of the Dayton team, which had reached the NIT finals four times without ever winning.

Red Offer for Newk Called 'Silly'; Denver Tops Blues in AAU Meet

From Press Dispatches

Brooklyn Dodger vice-president Buzzie Bavasi Tuesday rejected a Cincinnati seven-player offer for pitcher Don Newcombe as "silly."

Bavasi did not reveal the seven players offered by Redleg general manager Gabe Paul but indicated he had never taken the offer seriously. Paul earlier had announced that he made the offer to swap seven unidentified Redlegs for the 27-game winner.

Brooklyn's rejection of the deal indicated that the Dodgers are sure Newcombe will not suffer a recurrence of the arm trouble that plagued him during the World Series. It also indicated that they are satisfied with catcher Roy Campanella's injured hand, since it was regarded as certain that the Reds included catcher Smokey Burgess in the offer.

Rory Calhoun

Don Newcombe

MORE BASEBALL — Dr. Anthony M. Palermo, physician for the New York Giants, pleaded innocent to charges of evading $30,619 in income taxes from 1950-52. Trial was scheduled for May 6, after $2,500 bail was set. . . . Detroit's Muddy Ruel arrived at the Baltimore training camp at Scottsdale, Ariz., hoping to arrange a deal with the Orioles. Ruel wouldn't mention names but the Tigers have been trying to get pitcher Ray Moore and shortstop Willie Miranda.

BOXING—Rory Calhoun, fifth-ranked middleweight contender, scored a technical knockout over Augusta's James Bussey in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Miami Beach. Calhoun's next fight is to be with Joey Giardello.

BASKETBALL — National Association of Basketball Coaches opens its annual convention Wednesday but no squabble over rules is expected, according to President Ray Oosting of Trinity College. . . . Maurice King of Kansas and Mel Wright of Oklahoma A&M were added to the West basketball squad, completing the 10-man squad which will meet an East team March 30. . . . Denver eliminated the Atlanta Blues from the national women's AAU basketball tournament at St. Joseph, Mo., 37-34. Margaret Collins scored 12 points to lead the Blues.

FOOTBALL — Coach Johnny Michelosen denied he plans to convert his Pitt football team entirely to the single wing. He said a few single wing plays will be added during spring practice, "but only as an addition to the present style.". . . Don Klosterman, who quarterbacked the Calgary Stampeders last season, is still in serious condition after a skiing accident Sunday.

MISCELLANY — Herbie Flam Vic Seixas, Eddie Moylan and Gardnar Mulloy were among the favorites to advance in the Good Neighbor Tennis Championships at Miami Beach. Mulloy had a tough struggle with Presbyterian College player Jim Shakespeare, but won 6-2, 7-5. One of Flam's victories was over Col. T. W. Bonner of Atlanta, 6-4, 6-3. . . . World high jump record holder Charley Dumas has been declared ineligible at Southern Cal for scholastic reasons.

RAWLS-WRIGHT TEAM MATCHES MEN—FOR 8

The script for Meadowbrooks Country Club's Betsy Rawls clinic and exhibition Tuesday afternoon was subject to a pleasant last-minute revision.

Betsy was booked to do her clinic and then play a nine-hole match with Meadowbrooks' lady champ Marge Bradford against assistant pro Fred Sanders and men's club champ Ike Scott.

But Betsy brought along her pal Mickey Wright, fifth place finisher in the Augusta Titleholders Sunday. Betsy finished in a tie for seventh.

So, pro Dempsey Wright hit on the idea of letting Betsy, Mickey and Marge play Scott and Sanders.

As it turned out, this proved to be a fine job of matchmaking. The men finally won the match on No. 9, 1-up, but Sanders had to birdie the hole to win it.

Rawls carded a 38, Wright a 37, Scott a 36 (with fives on the two par 3s) and Sanders a 39. Marge would rather not have her score mentioned.

Rawls and Wright will appear at Marietta Country Club Wednesday afternoon. —PRATHER

Howard Wins Game Of 'Spin-the-Driver'

By RALPH GREGORY

A game of "spin-the-driver," with Roz Howard in the hot-seat, gave 7,000 spectators a lively show at Dallas Sunday but for Howard it was just "a long 25 miles."

Ralph Gregory

The Macon veteran, who has now won the last three SRE-sanctioned races in succession, had to pick his way along a crowded track while several other drivers tried to crowd him into the rail. He outmaneuvered them all, however, and before the 100-laps had ended he was in front and all his antagonists had smacked into the rail themselves.

"It was all a misunderstanding," Howard said. "I locked wheels with another driver and while we were heading for the fence I shook loose and he crashed into the wall. After that, he and a couple of friends decided to put me out."

"The only way I could pass was wait until there was a crowd of cars together on the track and pass them all at one time. Then I'd try to outrun them and stay ahead until I could find another bunch.

"I'm not mad with anybody, though, and I sure hope they're not mad with me. That track is no place to have any enemies," he concluded.

Howard drove a 1957 Chevrolet to pick up the win. Wilbur Rakestraw in a 1956 Ford was second and George Alsobrooks, U.S. Army, was third, also in a '56 Ford.

SRE sponsors another 100-lap late model race Sunday. This time at Camilla.

ACES AT LAKEWOOD—Early entries in the March 31 Lakewood Speedway opener have five of the top drivers in the Midwest Association of Racing Cars and Southern Racing Enterprises stable already lined up for the 100-mile late-model event.

Already signed for the event are Mike Klapak and Herschel White of the northern division of MARC. Gober Sosebee and Roscoe Thompson, Atlanta members of the southern division, and Roz Howard of Macon, leading driver on SRE's circuit.

Dick Rathmann, fourth-place finisher in the Indianapolis 500 last year, is also a good bet for the race. He's a United States Auto Club driver and has already been granted permission to race here, provided no USAC race on the West Coast conflicts with that date.

PIT STOPS — Caution flags slowed the pace at Wilson, N.C., Sunday, too, where Ralph Moody pushed a 1957 Ford home first in a 100-mile late model hardtop race. Moody averaged only 55.08 m.p.m. because of continual spin-outs. Buck Baker finished second in a 1957 Chevrolet. . . . Atlantan Fonty Flock rated No. 16 in the latest NASCAR point standings with 460 points. Leading was Marvin Panch of Daytona Beach, Fla., with 1,240 and Baker was second with 824. . . . Another Atlantan, Gober Sosebee, is in Detroit this week picking up a new Plymouth. Sosebee is making the switch from Studebaker. . . . In the convertible point standings Joe Weatherly continues on top with 1,064 points with Bob Welborn of Greensboro, N.C., tied for second with Glen Wood of Stuart, N.C. Each has 880 points.

THE RIDE'S TOO ROUGH — Curtis Turner, who set a new record for 150 laps in winning a convertible race at Greensboro Sunday, explained after the race that he didn't like to slow down for caution flags as twice required when another driver plowed into a fence. "You gotta hit those holes if you slow down," Turner complained.

Strain's Two-Hitter Blanks Buckeyes, 7-0

Georgians Pound Ohio State For 13 Hits in 7 Innings

Special to The Constitution

WINTER PARK, Fla., March 19—Right-hander Charley Strain's two-hitter gave Georgia a 7-0 victory over Ohio State in a baseball week game here today.

Strain allowed only four balls to be hit to the outfield in the seven-inning opener of today's baseball week double-header. It was the second win in three games here for the Bulldogs, who yesterday beat host Rollins and lost to the Buckeyes.

Every man in the Georgia lineup contributed to the 13-hit attack, with Strain contributing a double and a single to his own cause.

Ronald Bradley and Bill Giles also had doubles, while Wendell Tarleton twice singled and set himself up to be scored by stealing second base.

Georgia put the game on ice in the fifth, kayoing OSU starter Bill Soter on singles by Giles and Grice and Bradley's two-run double.

The Bulldogs added two more runs on a walk to Jim Calloway and singles by Don Sparrow and Ray Allen, before reliefer Tom Tobiassen could retire a batter.

GEORGIA'S STRAIN

A Strain on Buckeyes

Strain walked three and struck out three, allowing singles by OSU center-fielder Joe Cannavino in the first and left-fielder Norm Steagall in the fourth. The Buckeyes stranded three men, all in the fourth, when an error and base on balls combined with Steagall's hit to load the bases. It was the only time an Ohio runner got past first base.

MacGregor and Patton Hurl Tech to 9-3 Win Over Stetson

Jackets Face OSU Today

Special to The Constitution

DELAND, Fla., March 19—Georgia Tech came up with another fine pitching effort by senior right-handers Bob Patton and Danny MacGregor to stifle Stetson for the second straight day here Tuesday, 9-3. Patton and MacGregor scattered eight hits in highly effective fashion.

Tech, now 2-0 on its youthful baseball campaign, moves into Winter Park, Fla., Wednesday for a game with Ohio State University at Rollins College's annual baseball week. Yellow Jacket coach Joe Pittard has nominated Joe Taylor to open for Tech and "go as far as he can."

The Jackets had more trouble with Stetson in this series finale than they did in the opener. The Hatters stood precariously close at 5-3 into the top of the eighth inning, a frame which was to close out the game for good because of curfew purposes.

It was in that eighth Tech poured across four runs, and a 5-3 game was suddenly a 9-3 rout. MacGregor, who worked the day's best hurling stint, opened with a single. Bobby Dover doubled and an error loaded 'em up. Lane Akers drew a walk off Jack Parker, forcing in a run. Vince Terry lofted a fly to right that was misplayed, and two runs trundled across. Another, this one in the form of Akers, scored when the outfield relay was bobbled.

JUDGE TOLLS 6 COUNT AGAINST JAKE LAMOTTA

MIAMI, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Jake LaMotta, former middleweight boxing champion, tonight was convicted in court of crimes on two counts of violating the state prostitution laws.

LaMotta, now a Miami Beach bar operator, stood unflinching as Judge George E. Schulz imposed the maximum penalty of six months in the county jail at "hard labor" and a fine of $500.

The broad-shouldered boxer was found guilty by a six-man jury on two of four counts in a misdemeanor information—operating a place in which a 14-year-old girl made "dates" for prostitution and "aiding and abetting" her activities.

The jury freed him on the other counts—receiving the girl in his establishment and procuring customers for her.

LaMotta and his attorney called the verdict "a serious miscarriage of justice" and demanded the right to file motions for a new trial and appeal to circuit court.

"I've never seen this girl," LaMotta shouted to the jury after she was ushered into the courtroom.

Asked by his attorney, L. J. Cushman, if he had kissed the girl—as she testified—to determine if she were 21, LaMotta replied:

"Definitely not."

DAY IN THE LIFE OF A ROOKIE BASEBALLER: A LOT OF HITTING . . . AND FIELDING . . . AND A LETTER HOME

Rube Prater Bones Up on His Bunting, Then Goes After a High One in His Centerfield Position, and Lets the Folks in Waco, Ga., Know

THE STORY OF A ROOKIE

RUBE PRATER LIKE OTHERS: 'I WANT TO PLAY ANYWHERE'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19—"My name is Ruben but they call me Rube."

Ruben (Rube) Prater bounced a ball off the batting cage, and smiled.

Rube Prater is a rookie in the baseball camp of the Atlanta Crackers. Baseball has always been a familiar game to Rube, but spring training in a double-A camp is a thing of another shade.

The rookies and the unsigned begin spring training in somewhat of a daze. They're awed by more publicized teammates, by the bright lights of a large town, by the speed of veteran pitchers . . . and by the situation itself.

There are cliques on a baseball team, as in everything. The rookies usually travel together, the returnees together and fat catchers follow the man with the meal money.

"Let me tell you about the rookies," said Jasper Donaldson, vice president and meal money man of the Crackers. "Sure they come in cautiously, but they soon learn the ropes and then they're like the others, always wanting something. It doesn't take long."

This is the period of spring training when the traffic lights get a thorough workout from incoming and outgoing passengers. Two rookies have already pulled up stakes. They're outfielder Punk Williams of Atlanta and infielder Jim Smith of Albany, N.Y., both of them unsigned.

Prater's story could be the story of all rookies in the Cracker camp.

"I played a lot of sandlot ball," he says. "I hit .444 for the Temple team of the Atlanta Amateur League, and was signed by Felix Garrett. High school ball? Well, I had one year at Mt. Zion.

"I know I probably won't make it here, but I want to play ball, anywhere, and I believe I can. I don't think I've done too badly in camp.

"Buddy Bates is a fine fellow. If they listen to him, the fellows will learn a lot of baseball."

The routine of a rookie goes like this: Up at 8:30 a.m. . . . breakfast in the hotel . . . check the morning papers for accounts of the previous day's game . . . check clerk for mail from home . . . out to the ballpark for hitting practice . . . game at 2 . . . back to hotel . . . dinner . . . some serious lobby sitting, card-playing or a movie . . . Bed and dreams, dreams and dreams of a tomorrow.

The baseball life of a rookie is perilously uncertain. He could be on his way to "lower Slobbovia" in class Z baseball between the time you talk to him and the time the story appears in print.

Somehow, though, you don't think Rube Prater will leave today. He has just lifted a Paul Deal pitch 345-feet over the right field fence for two Cracker runs.

After that home run it'll be Rube with a capital R.

And everybody just calls him Rube. —THOMY.

one, and in the second for two. Prater also hit one out in the second for two more runs. Wichita bounced back on Bill Thompson's run-producing single in the first, and Talbot's three-run smash over left in the second, and it was 5-4.

Grace tied it up with a towering homer over left in the sixth.

A double by Willis on Howie O'Flynn's grounder enabled the Crackers to untie it, 6-5, in the top of the seventh, but Hartsfield came back to drive in Jacobs, who had walked, with a single in the bottom half of the inning.

In the ninth, Montag singled and scored on Prater's clothesliner to center.

Then came the bottom of the ninth . . . and a familiar finish.

In Wednesday's game, Bates indicated he would send lefty Bill Augustoni and Fred Vogel to the Cracker mound, and manager Ben Geraghty of the Braves said he would use George Miranad, Bob Hartman and come back with Ben Johnson, who started the first game.

The day, however, was not a complete loss, thanks to the tremendous slugging show put on by rookies Whitley and Prater.

Barons Seek JC Cage Crown

By PAUL ATKINSON

Brewton Parker College, a whizbang gang of speedy shorties, will encounter no height difficulties in its National Junior College Tournament opener Wednesday at Hutchinson, Kan.

For first-round foe, the Golden Norsemen of Northeastern Oklahoma A&M (Miami), doesn't have a considerable amount of that height commodity. Herbert Bacon, a 6-2½ freshman from Jay, Okla., is the tallest of these Norsemen.

This is unusual, that Brewton will carry a height advantage. The Barons aren't tall at all. Six-four forward Earl Tidwell is the largest of the Barons, with center Ralph Miller just 5-11.

So height won't be a worry for coach Glenn Wilkes. But flu—that sickness more or less common around the state at the present—is. Miller, the key man in the Barons' attack and described by one opposing state JC coach as the "best all-around" player, was doubtful when the Barons embarked Saturday on the long trip.

Roswell Wins Three-Way Meet

Special to The Constitution

ROSWELL, March 19—Roswell opened its home track season by winning a three-way track meet with Forsyth County and Lawrenceville Monday.

Roswell scored 52 1/3 points to Forsyth's 49 1/3 and Lawrenceville finished last with 24 1/3 points.

Leonard Wilder paced the Roswell team by scoring 14 points to be high in the three-way meet.

CRACKER DIARY

Myrtle Jinx Keeps Hold On Phillips

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19—Dick Phillips, the rookie third baseman who's been impressive in practice sessions at the old Jacksonville baseball park, cannot seem to get started in his old home town, the new park.

He has yet to pick up his first exhibition hit, though he continues to rattle the fences on Myrtle Avenue.

During Tuesday's morning batting session, Phillips drove two over the right-field fence, but in the afternoon he went hitless in five trips against the Wichita Braves.

Manager Buddy Bates is not worried. "Phillips is a fine ballplayer, and he'll get started soon," said Bates. "I believe he has a bright baseball future ahead of him."

Billy Reynolds was limited to a pinch-hitting appearance Tuesday because of a pulled leg muscle, suffered in a slide Monday . . . and it must be some kind of record, the 10 putouts made by second baseman Bill (Dud) Whitley, who added two home runs and a single to his sparkling Tuesday field and bat day. . . Southern Assn. president Charlie Hurth and his better half sat in the stands with Cracker president-owner Earl Mann and watched Tuesday's game. . . Add spectators John Mullen, Milwaukee minor league director: Bob Willis Sr., father of young Bob, and George Olson of the Gator Bowl committee.

Wichita outfielder Howard Bedell and Lee (Willie) Maye missed Tuesday's game because of charley horses. . . . Righthander Dick Grabowski, formerly of the Crackers reported to Wichita club after a stint with the Milwaukee Braves at Bradenton. He pitched only two innings there, those against Cincinnati. "I was excited and not at my best," he said. "I wish I had a second chance. I called my father and he told me to do my best with Wichita, and that's what I plan to to. Maybe I'll get another chance with the Braves."—THOMY.

Amputee Golfer Scores Ace at Atlanta Depot

By Bert Prather

Things are really breaking right for Joe Avans, Atlanta's amputee golf star, these days.

Sunday at Atlanta General Depot course Joe stroked in a five iron on the 165-yard No. 2 hole for his first hole-in-one.

Bert Prather

And Tuesday he received a letter from East Lake CC golf chairman Rube Gunnell inviting him and fellow amputee golfers to stage their Southeastern sectional qualifying for the National Amputee championship on the Lake's beautiful No. 2 course.

It was pretty hard to tell which pleased Joe most.

Avans, who lost his right leg about three years ago, made his ace while playing in a twosome with Earl Smith. He went on to post a 72 for the round.

Joe, Southeastern representative for the National Amputee Golf Association, said the sectional tournament would be staged Saturday and Sunday, May 18 and 19.

T. Chalmers Bryant aced the 151-yard No. 4 at Peachtree GC but it didn't save him from defeat by his 15-year-old son, Tarby. T. C. walloped a 4-iron in on the fly but his young offspring just collected his par on the hole and went on to lead Pop by 4-up at end of nine. T. C. had a 53 to Tarby's 49.

Frank Hedrick, tournament chairman, has announced Aug. 15-17 as dates for this year's Radium Country Club Invitational. This is just two weeks after Radium plays host to the State Open (Aug. 2-4). Probably because he anticipates plenty of work ahead, Frank and wife Clarice will take off April 26 for a six-week vacation in Europe. Hedrick tried to arrange the trip so as to take in the British Amateur but it seems someone had other plans.

Snead, Two Others Lead At Seminole

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 19. (UP)—Sam Snead and Ben Hogan joined the touring golf pros today for the first time this winter. Snead tied for the lead in the opening round of the Seminole Pro-Am Tournament but Hogan had a fat 73.

Snead, now professional at nearby Boca Raton, had 33-36—69 over the 6,746-yard Seminole course where par is 36-36—72. He tied with Lloyd Mangrum, 33-36, and Bud Holscher, 34-35, both of Apple Valley, Calif.

Holscher teamed with Shaw Walker, furniture manufacturer of Muskegon, Mich., for 31-30—61 in the pro-am division. Walker, with a 9 handicap, helped Holscher by 8 strokes.

Gardner Dickinson, Panama City, Fla., and William G. Curran, Detroit advertising executive, shared the lead with 30-31—61. Curran, whose handicap is 13, helped Dickinson by 11 strokes.

Hogan teamed with singer Bing Crosby and they had 33-33—66. Hogan's individual score was 38-35—73.

Fourth among the pros was Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., with 33-37—70.

Manderson, Infield Are Chamblee Keys

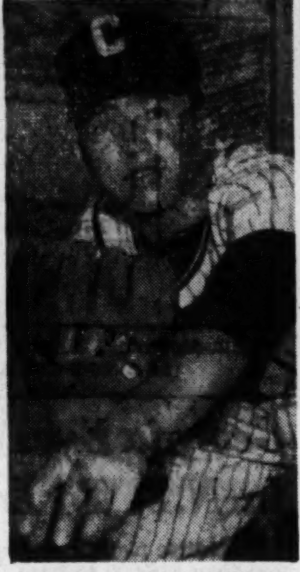
Bulldogs' Pitcher Has Won 16 Games in Past 3 Seasons

By CHARLIE DARRING

If anything is going to happen in baseball circles this year out Chamblee way it will depend on two important questions.

How well can the inexperienced infield of Coach Tony Palma hold out and how will pitcher Mabrey Manderson fare against Region 4AA foes?

Palma says a lot of teams have already put their fingers on the crown, but if it's left up to Chamblee there could be some disappointed 4AA teams when the season ends this year.



MABREY MANDERSON

Chamblee Strong Point

Chamblee's complete infield, with the exception of first baseman Phil Lundy, took the graduation route last spring and the keystone, shortstop and third base is a wide-open race for anyone who can nail down the job. Haley Duncan is the only junior looking for an infield post and the rest are freshmen.

Lundy is Palma's choice of holding down first base and should round into one of the top first-baggers in 4AA.

Third base is one of the chief problems in the Bulldog camp, because fiery third-sacker Eddie Grider is absent and he was certainly the Bulldogs' sparkplug last year.

In the outer garden will be senior Fred Smith. He goes in left field and has a year's seasoning behind him and should get better as the season rolls along. Will Swafford, a soph, will pull down fly balls in right field. Kenneth Taylor is on the list for full-time duty in center field.

The backstopping duties will find letterman Joe Webb looking out through the mask and he should improve as the season gallops along. Tony Martin, another soph, will also see some receiving action.

Mabrey Manderson, a big word in 4-AA baseball last season, will be back to show his hurling talent again this year and in all respects this is bad news to region foes. Manderson has racked up 16 victories in three years for the Bulldogs.

David Yorker, another senior, is back and should improve on last year's hurling mark. Bobby Hunt, Jim Thomson, Larry McIntosh and Jimmy Phillips complete the Bulldog hurling staff.

Chamblee could be the sleeper in 4AA wars this year.

THE SMALL COLLEGES

Spring Sports Grow Slowly, But Surely for JC's

By PAUL ATKINSON

"They're growing from year to year," the man said. "It just takes time to get the students interested."

Paul Atkinson

Reference here is to those three outcast junior college sports of the spring—tennis, golf and track. The speaker was Young Harris coach Luke Rushton, who had some imminence on the Georgia tutoring scene this winter with his championship basketball Lions.

"We started the tennis and golf tournaments back in 1955. The play wasn't good the first time out . . . I'll admit," he continued. "But it has improved. And now they're bringing out track. It's a good thing for the junior colleges."

Dates for golf and tennis are May 10-11 at Gordon Military College in Barnesville. Macon and Mercer entertain the track people a week earlier, May 4.

Rushton, the Young Harris track and golf head guy, has his troubles. He has no golf links, but the Mountain Lions won the first golf tournament in 1955. "We just put together a team that season," he explained. "And one of our fellows was pretty good.

"When we accepted the golf trophy in a chapel exercise, one wag asked: 'How did you like your golf team, coach? It was the first time you'd seen it.' He was just about right."

Rushton has similar tennis troubles. Still the netters have won both the 1955 and 1956 titles. John Mathison of Opelika, Ala., and Wayne Copeland of LaGrange, both exceptional basketballers, figure in his defense of the tennis crown.

However, like the man said . . . it takes time. Before too many moons have passed, those three "outcasts"—tennis, track and golf—should have the same place of prominence in the Georgia JC sun that football, baseball and basketball now occupy.

SHORT NOTES—They say around the University of Alabama that a lot is expected from Young Harris center John Adcock. He's expected to step in quickly and continue the brilliant play that he showed for the Georgia JC champion Mountain Lions. . . . Adcock's JC tutor Luke Rushton figures Adcock can do just that. "John has the shots," Rushton said Tuesday. "Of course, he'll have to make some adjustments to the Southeastern Conference style. But I'm sure he can do it." Young Harris' basketballer Bill Finch may wind up at Wofford, Georgia Teachers or Mercer. . . . Norman College comes up with its first JC track, golf and tennis teams under the direction of coach Doyle Webb. Audis Williams, Ellis Hardwick, Bubba Bennett, Gene Brown, Billy Searcey, Jim King, Boyce Storey, LeRoy Hall, and Billy Ray McCurry are track hopefuls. . . . This Norman track crew could be the class of the JC meet at Macon. . . . Mercer's baseballers plunged deeply into the baseball wars Saturday, very probably too deeply. Tennessee submerged the Macon people, 12-0. Prominent Bears who await their next game, March 26 with Wofford at Macon, are catcher Mel Kinslow, first basemen Roger Bolton and Royce Hobbs, second baseman Billy Lee, and outfielders Ken and Dean Crane and Larry Painter. . . . Middle Georgia's Cliff Coggin likes the looks of pitchers Tom Rountree and Al Strickland.

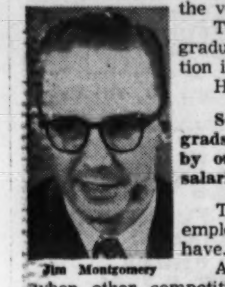
Atlanta Is Building Engineering Pool

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Atlanta this month launched a new plan to obtain a top priority weapon that may give the city a decisive edge in the intense nationwide competition for new industry.

The weapon itself—engineering talent—is not new.

But the present strategy aimed at providing this area with a reserve supply of these widely wooed slide rule calculators is, at the very least, unusual for a city.



Jim Montgomery

The idea was conceived by a Georgia Tech gradute now employed at a government installation in another state.

He would like to return to Georgia.

So, he figures, would a lot of other Tech grads who have been lured to far away places by outstanding job opportunities and lucrative salaries.

The main hitch is that they would require employment comparable to what they already have.

Atlanta, on the other hand, reasons that when other competitive factors are about the same between industry-seeking cities, this metropolis could land the most important plants by assuring them a supply of experienced engineers.

Such men are, after all, the ones credited for American industry's swiftly advancing technology.

And American industry spares no time, effort or money to win graduate engineers to its payrolls—either by camping on college doorsteps or by intercompany raiding forays.

As a result, Frank K. Shaw, assistant general manager of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, is conducting a pilot survey to determine whether or not Tech grads now located in other parts of the nation would return to Georgia if comparable employment opportunities were offered.

Letters went out earlier this month to a small, selected list of graduates.

Each of the half-dozen replies thus far received has bolstered hopes for success, for each has said he either "would consider" or "would like to" return to Atlanta.

'Ideal Place To Live' Has Pulling Power

And it is tempting to attach extra significance to one of these in particular—the one postmarked from "sunny California.'

For it may be indicative of just "how ideal a place Atlanta is to live," a most important consideration in the location of new plants—especially those employing a significant number of engineers and scientists.

Shaw, a Georgia Tech graduate (EE '25), points out in the letters, "The Atlanta area is currently under consideration as a location for certain new manufacturing plants and laboratories that will require the services of engineers and scientists."

A substantial number of Tech grads now working elsewhere, he adds, have indicated in conversations a desire to return to this area—provided they are offered employment opportunities comparable to what they now have.

If the sampling response is favorable, there are plans to survey a large number of Tech men in order to compile a list of qualified engineers—"an impressive list."

Would Open Jobs for Other Tech Graduates

Shaw, who has spent his entire career working for Atlanta's industrial development, demonstrated his awareness of engineering and technological needs by adding this "clincher" to his letters:

"Your help and cooperation . . . may lead to the development of industries that will afford openings for other Tech grads and also provide for advanced study, interchange of personnel and use of research and library facilities."

Success in this project conceivably could accelerate the growth of important industry in the Atlanta area.

For the addition of a pool of engineering talent to its other well known advantages would almost certainly give Atlanta an allure that few industries could—or would want to—resist.

Transco Gas Pipe Line Station Slated in Walton

By BOB WILLIMON

A Walton County site near Monroe has been selected as the location for Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation's third major Georgia compressor station, Transco officials told The Constitution from Houston, Tex., Tuesday.

Construction of the $3,000,000 facility, which will have a "six-house village" for the families of some 23 to 27 employes drawing salaries totaling $125,000 a year, will get under way in about three weeks, officials said.

ONE OF SEVEN

The station, one of seven to be built by Transco this year in six states at a cost of $61.5 million, also will entail laying of 19 miles of 36-inch pipe. The new pipe will bring to 251 miles the length of main line laid in Georgia by Transco in the last three years.

Transco officials declined to specify further regarding the location of the Monroe station. They added, however, that the site "has been purchased."

The facility will help boost to 24 the number of Georgia communities receiving direct Transco gas service. It will employ local personnel "except for some supervisory posts."

BY WINTER

Additional Georgia communities slated to receive Transco gas service "by the winter heating season" are Greensboro, Madison, Social Circle and Union Point.

The firm's two existing compressor stations are situated near Comer and near Stockbridge. Transco's lines, which extend from gathering areas as far south as Brownsville, Tex., to New York City, pass through Georgia south of Atlanta.

Corporation Domination Seen in Taxes

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Federal tax policies are helping to lead the country toward economic domination by a few federal corporations, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) told the Senate Finance Committee today.

Saying he was "alarmed" at the trend, Fulbright urged "some changes."

Fulbright was testifying in support of his amendment to lower tax rates on small corporations. The committee is considering legislation to extend present income tax rates on corporations. The rates, unless continued, will drop April 1 The House has voted an extension.

"My amendemnt," Fulbright said, "would redistribute the impact of federal corporate income taxes in a way (1) to reduce taxes for approximately 98 per ecnt of all corporations, (2) to increase taxes for approximately 2 per cent of all corporations, and (3) to increase federal revenue by appromiately 20 million dollars."

He said he was certain that "our economic democracy cannot continue without growth in the numbers and strength of business units competing in the market place."

Georgia Eyes $16,000 Booth In N.Y. To Lure Industry

Tentative plans were reached here Tuesday to spend more than $16,000 to keep Georgia on the mind of some 10,000 expansion-minded corporation executives slated to attend the first National Industrial Development Exposition at New York's Coliseum in May.

The money—aimed at attracting to Georgia a large share of the estimated $38 billion in capital outlay these executives will spend this year—would go for a 900-square-foot exhibition booth, third largest of 18 sizes offered.

Georgians participating in preliminary regional discussions presided over by exposition President Raymond Y. Bartlett of New York included Scott Candler, Georgia Commerce Commissioner; Frank Shaw, Paul W. Miller, and W. Roy Ulrich of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Walter Cates and G. B. Stribling of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce; Allen H. Douglas of Augusta's 100 Committee; James E. Hayes, Thomaston Chamber of Commerce; E. A. Yates Jr., Georgia Power Co.; Clayton D. McClendon, C&S Bank; Merrill C. Lofton of the U.S. Department of Commerce, and Robert M. Holder.

The state chamber would coordinate fund raising efforts for the booth, to which Candler said the state would contribute.

BATTLE ROYAL

Fairbanks Morse Suit Asks Enjoining Silberstein Votes

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—The management of Fairbanks, Morse & Co. today asked the U.S. District Court to block Leopold D. Silberstein's move to win control of the 135-million-dollar firm.

The company sought an injunction to prohibit Silberstein interests from voting any stock "directly or indirectly" at the annual meeting of Fairbanks Morse stockholders March 27.

The civil suit requested court intervention on the ground that Silberstein and his associates gathered stock and rights to vote stock through "gambling contracts" and other allegedly illegal deals.

The legal action came less than 20 hours after Silberstein had stated the contest already has been "decided" and his side would elect the majority of the 11 directors at next week's meeting.

Silberstein, president of the Penn-Texas Corp. and head of an industrial empire that had sales of about 125 million last year, had claimed he controlled about half the Fairbanks Morse stock.

"Mr. Robert Morse (Fairbanks Morse president) has now publicly conceded defeat," Silberstein commented in New York. "He merely seeks to postpone the inevitable."

Silberstein added that Fairbanks Morse management "on what appears to be completely specious grounds" has launched "an unprecedented and amazing legal maneuver designed to disenfranchise Penn-Texas, the corporation's largest stockholder."

The battle royal also had echoes in Washington, where the Senate Banking subcommittee had a closed-door huddle with officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Sen. Lausche (D-Ohio) said senators had been told that "securities laws of this country have been violated" through use of Swiss banks in purchases of Fairbanks Morse stock.

The company claimed that the Silberstein interests bought proxies—rights to vote shares—instead of stock. The suit contended promises to buy stock for future delivery "constitute illegal gambling contracts since it was not the intent at the time of the sale that the stock should actually be delivered and paid for."

Danger of a Crash Remote, Study Finds

A Stable Business Structure Found by Federal Reserve

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Easy payment buying has added fuel to booms and, less often, has "aggravated" recessions, the staff of the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

The board sent to the President's Council of Economic Advisers a major contribution to the debate on stand-by consumer credit controls—a 5-volume, 1,619-page report on the economic impact of installment buying.

It concluded that a credit crash like that of 1929-32, marked by debt defaults, home foreclosures and repossessions of autos and furniture, is less likely in the modern business structure.

STILL A POSSIBILITY

"The possibility of an episode of drastic and spiraling liquidation should not be dismissed. Unusual losses and debtor ajustments occurred in the 1937-8 recession," it said.

The board's research team did not try to answer the key question which underlay President Eisenhower's request for the study a year ago—whether Congress should enact stand-by power to control down payments and repayment terms.

But the staff did conclude that installment debt, now a 31½-billion-dollar load, is among "the less stable kinds of credit." While not a primary cause of inflation or depression, it said, it can help unstabilize the whole economy.

MORE "RESPECTABLE"

The researchers found that credit buying has become increasingly "respectable." Forty-five families out of 100 are making time payments, including a surprising number with incomes over $7,500 a year.

Many families, it was indicated, use credit as a form of saving. They conserve their liquid assets while acquiring goods on a pay-as-you-use basis. Comparatively few debtors know the interest rate or carrying charges they pay.

Looking at five uptrend periods—pre-1929, 1934-7, 1946-49, 1952-3, and the spectacular credit binge of 1955—the staff learned that in each case "installment credit buying contributed to a rate of sales of consumer durable goods that could not be sustained."

In four of the five cases, a lowering of down payments and a lengthening of the period of installments stimulated buying. Then many consumers, stocked up on goods and debt, dropped out of the market and for a time concentrated on repaying.

The case in which this did not happen was the one which prompted Eisenhower's request of last year that Congress "consider" selective control authority—the 1955 auto and goods buying spree.

Weighing probable future trends the staff headed by research director Ralph A. Young concluded that:

1. Consumer credit may grow by 5 to 6 percent a year—more slowly than in the recent past, but probably more rapidly than consumers' income will rise.

INCOME PERCENTAGE

2. By 1956, families may be putting 13 to 14 per cent of their spendable income into installement buying, as against 11 per cent in the past two years and 7 per cent in 1940.

3. Installment terms won't get much easier or much tighter. Lenders indicate unwillingness to incur greater risks. And new car terms are so extended that further lengthening would not reduce monthly payments markedly.

4. In upswings, consumer credit will continue to stimulate business, but the "degree of stimulation is likely to be less than during preceding periods of vigorous credit growth."

Petroleum Assn. Elects Hackett

Georgia Liquefied Petroleum Assn. has elected Jack Hackett of Home Gas Corp., Moultrie, as its new president.

Hackett's election came at the Southeastern L-P Gas Assn.'s three-day annual meeting, now under way at the Biltmore Hotel.

Other new officers are L. E. Carn, Savannah, vice president, and Edmund Taylor, Lithonia, secretary-treasurer. Harvey Green of Thomaston and C. T. Slate of Valdosta were elected directors.

Pennsy Profits Of 41.2 Millions Tops Since 1945

PHILADELPHIA, March 19 (AP). The Pennsylvania Railroad, despite a month-long steel strike and increased costs, reported today that its profits last year—over $41,500,000—were the biggest since 1945.

PRR Pres. James M. Symes told stockholders in the annual statement that America's largest railroad had net income of $41,545,435, compared with $41,183,533 in 1955—a gain of nearly $400,000. This amounted to $3.15 per share, 3 cents more than in 1955.

Furthermore, Symes pointed out that the Pennsy, which operates 10,000 miles of tracks in 13 states and the District of Columbia, had net operating revenues of $991,107,116, just short of a billion dollars. This was 56 million dollars more than in 1955.

"Under ordinary circumstances this would not be a good comparison," he said, "but the fact that the $41,500,000 net was produced despite a 34-day steel strike and a new wave of inflation following its settlement, makes it a more creditable showing."

The best recent year for the PRR, which has 103,000 employes and which carries one-twelfth of the nation's freight and one-eighth of its passengers, was 1945. That year it earned $53,795,433.

Textile Earnings Down 24 Pct. at West Point Plant

WEST POINT, Ga., March 19 (AP)—The West Point Manufacturing Co. today reported sales were off 7 per cent and net profits down 24 per cent for the first six months of its fiscal year ending March 2, compared with a similar period last year.

Net sales totaled $68,408,000, compared to $73,466,000 for a period last year, Joseph L. Lanier, president, reported. Net income after taxes decreased from $3,372,000 to $2,700,000.

Earnings per share this year were 89 cents, compared with $1.18 last year.

Lanier said the company's lower sales and profits are in line with general conditions in the textile industry.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Spot selling predominated in the cotton textile market Tuesday, involving print cloths, broadcloths and drills mainly. Prices were about unchanged. Some quarters noted resale offerings of print cloths were smaller, with sellers holding back because of unsatisfactory prices. A leading factor in corduroy fabrics was said to have raised prices two cents a yard in an effort to put them on a more profitable basis.

In wool goods, principal interest focused on current formal openings of fall lines by clothing manufacturers. Australian wool markets were steady, according to private advices.

In rayon goods, dealers reported only routine buying of spun and filament fabrics.

Old Hickory is the brand of the Bourbon Man

The Bourbon Man knows that if a whisky is genuine bourbon, it has to say bourbon on the label.
This is bourbon at its best. Virile. Robust. Smooth—the way you wish all bourbons were. These are not just words—the proof is in every barrel. Every bottle. Every glass. Extra years enrich Old Hickory's great bourbon flavor. Takes longer for us to make, but worth it in the added pleasure you get.

Money Ease Hint Sparks Late Rally

Coppers, Steels, Most Oils Lead Upturn in Final Hour

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—A late improvement left the stock market higher today after mixed trends had prevailed throughout most of the day.

Coppers, steels and most oils led the late upturn, which was accompanied by a slight pick-up in volume. Until the last hour trading had been even slower than in yesterday's very dull session.

Expansion in demand toward the finish coincided with news of a cut in bankers acceptance rates, which was interrupted by some market analysts as indicating a slight easing in the tight money situation.

NO TREND

Earlier, however, William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told a Senate Banking subcommittee there was no trend yet toward an easing in the money market.

Most coppers gained from the start, sparked by Kennecott. The company's president said its sales of copper in the first two months of 1957 exceeded production. Kennecott ended up 1½ at 110½.

Oils attracted attention following action of the Texas Railroad Commission in cutting the state's allowable oil production for April. Royal Dutch, Socony Mobil and Standard of Jersey, all actively traded, ended with fractional gains.

Dresser Industries gained 1⅝ to close at 53⅛ on a statement by a company official that the company expected increased earnings in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

AIRCRAFTS LAG

Aircrafts generally lagged although North American Aviation was an exception, gaining 2⅛ at 30⅜. Douglas dropped ⅞ at 76⅜ while Boeing and United Aircraft recorded smaller losses.

Of the 1,102 issues traded, 515 advanced while 331 declined. Despite the generally higher market, new lows for 1956-57 outnumbered new highs by 16 to 7.

Most active issue was American Motors, up ⅛ on top of a ¼ gain yesterday. President George Romney will meet in Miami tomorrow with Louis Wolfson, recently revealed as the company's largest stockholder.

Some of the drug companies met demand on the ground the industry has a good outlook for earnings and dividends and, in the words of one analyst, "is not greatly sensitive to general business fluctuations."

Corporate bonds closed lower in quiet trading. U.S. government bonds rose in over-the-counter dealings.

Grain Rally Is Short Lived

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—Grain futures got a rally started on the Board of Trade today but it was short lived, largely due to liquidation in March contracts.

March wheat dipped 3½ cents a bushel and pulled other contracts down with it. Selling spread into other pits and losses of a cent or more were common, just as they have been in recent sessions. Only oats showed a little strength.

Wheat closed 3½ cents lower to ¼ higher, corn ¾ to 1¼ lower, oats ⅝ lower to ½ higher, rye ¾ to 1¾ lower, soybeans 1¼ to 1⅞ lower, and lard 5 cents a hundred pounds lower to 3 cents higher.

Tomorrow is the last day for trading in March futures contracts.

The rally at the outset of trading today was due partly to the government report forecasting the smallest acreage of crops since World War I. This was true in wheat, corn and oats, which are among the major crops.

Continued sale of government surplus corn, and liberal receipts at terminal markets, caused some hedge selling in corn. Chicago corn receipts were 125 cars. The government sold 1,330,000 bushels of corn to exporters overnight.

The government forecast acreage of almost 4 per cent more for soybeans this year. This caused some late selling in beans.

Cotton Slow, Mostly Higher

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Cotton futures were mostly higher today in slow dealings. Final prices were 75 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower, with only distant July showing a decline.

Old-crop May and July, which recently experienced liquidating pressure, were steady as light but persistent trade buying found offerings limited. This in turn induced short covering by local traders. Most of the action took place in nearby months. Hedge selling was light and credited in part to Memphis interests.

New crop futures were relatively quiet, though there was sufficient commission house buying to result in small gains for the day. So far as deferred months were concerned, traders awaited fresh crop developments. No rain of consequence was reported in the southwest, but widely scattered showers were forecast over parts of west Texas and southwest Oklahoma.
